ENROLLMENT TRENDS

(The following analysis and interpretation of our student enrollment is taken from the Registrar Paul Bender's write-up for the Directory. It is revealing and pertinent, and should interest the friends of Goshen College.)

The surprise of the year is that the total enrollment at Goshen College is increased over last year's figures, as opposed to an expected decrease.

The total for full-time students at Goshen College at this time is 569 as compared to 537 for a year ago, representing an increase of approximately five per cent. This increase is reflected in all college classes, excepting the sophomore class which has three less than a year ago. The most marked increase has occurred in the junior class, which has 27 more students than a year ago. The freshmen number eight more, the seniors two more, and the advanced seminary two more than a year ago.

The percentage of all Mennonite students stands again at 86 per cent of the total, the same as a year ago. This means that there has again been an increase in attendance of Mennonite students—from 463 to 486. The number of members of the Mennonite Church, the branch operating Goshen College, has increased from 419 to 436 to represent 77 per cent of the total of full-time students. The 50 students from other Mennonite branches represent an increase of nine over last year's number.

Enrollment figures by states show trends that may be of interest. The three leading states as to patronage at Goshen College, namely, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, show slight decreases in attendance over last year's figures. Students from these three states constitute about 44 per cent of the student body. Of the remaining states and Canadian provinces contributing three or more students, 13 show an increase over last year's number, whereas only three show a decrease. Of these, Michigan leads the list with 13 more students, and Illinois is next with six more students than a year ago. Students from Canada number 22, with 17 from Ontario, four from Manitoba, and one from Saskatchewan. Students from other countries number 18, including four from Puerto Rico, two each from Formosa, Germany, Indonesia, Japan, and Mexico, and one each from Argentina, Jordan, Kenya, and Switzerland.

The number of students transferring from other colleges again is very substantial, with an increase of nine over the number for 1951, to make a total of 58. The junior class has received the largest number of this group of transfer students, with a total of 31. This helps to account for the unusually large junior class. Transfer students entering the seminary for advanced study beyond the bachelor's degree also show an increase over last year, for a total of seven. The freshman, sophomore, and senior classes have each received six students in transfer, and two have entered as postgraduate students. Our sister Mennonite colleges have again furnished the bulk of these transfer students, with 20 coming from Hesston College, five from Eastern Mennonite College, three from Messiah College, and three from Bethel College at Newton, Kansas. There are also five transfers from Bethel College at Mishawaka, Indiana.

The size of the two upper classes as compared to the two lower classes in college has shown a steady increase over the past ten-year period. Ten years ago the combined juniors and seniors constituted about 33 per cent of the college group, whereas this year they make 44 per cent of the total. This percentage change is the more significant since the total enrollment is now more than double that of ten years ago. The increase in upper-class numbers shows that a much larger number of students are now continuing with four years of college study. A considerable number of these upper-class students are transfers from other colleges.

There is also a very marked increase in the number of seminary students studying in the Divinity Curriculum, that is, in the curriculum which requires graduation from college for entrance. These numbers for the past three years are six, 13, and 20 respectively. This means that 20 students are now studying in the seminary on the graduate level. In addition there are 11 seminary students this year studying in the senior or fifth year of the Theology Curriculum, to receive the Th.B. degree at the end of the year.

The intended occupations of freshmen follow very much the same pattern as has been the case for recent freshman classes. Teaching still ranks first among the occupational interests, with 45 freshmen indicating this as their intended occupation. The undecided group is considerably larger than a year ago. The group choosing business is notably smaller than a year ago. Religious work, nursing, and medicine attract about the same numbers of the students in this year's freshman class as in last year's class. Freshmen listing farming as their intended occupation has decreased at a steady rate from the peak in 1949 of 15 to three in this year's class.

Students who had served either in CPS or in the armed forces number 33, the same as a year ago. Three of the latter, however, have entered under the new provisions concerning veterans in the war in Korea. The number of married students is 74, which is nine more than a year ago.

A number of the trends revealed by these figures deserve an attempt at interpretation, particularly as they may point the way to areas in which special effort should be made for publicity or for modification of the college program. The first of these trends has to do with the surprising increase in enrollment, particularly in light of the fact that the number of entering men students is quite significantly below that for the women students. The current economic situation apparently has influenced this trend. Paradoxically the same economic situation has probably tended to decrease the number of men students entering college. Young men find it easy to earn high wages and probably also find that there is considerable pressure for them to take employment because of the demand for labor. This fact, linked with the desire to have a good time while they may before being called into government service by the draft, and often expressed by purchasing a car, has probably led a number of young men to remain out of college who would otherwise have attended. This tendency is much to be regretted and should be combated as much as possible through college publicity. On the other hand, since money for a college education is probably rather readily available in the family group, the young women find it easy to plan to attend college. They do not share the same pressures from employment and earning possibilities, as well as from the draft situation, which the young men experience. This situation may serve to explain in part the rather marked discrepancy in the numbers of men and women entering college during the past two years.

The good reputation of Goshen College over the past years, even among Mennonite circles, has sprung largely from the fact that it had a strong program of liberal arts education. Since the pressure resulting from the sudden increase of enrollment following the World War is now relieved, and the college has had time to build up a more adequate staff for the larger enrollment, the time seems to be here when additional prestige can best be gained by improvements in the basic educational program of the college.

HOMECOMING AT GOSHEN COLLEGE 1952

Homecoming breezed in upon us this year on the winds of a fifty-mile gale from the west. Guests arrived in considerable numbers already on Wednesday evening.

The actual schedule of events got under way at 10:15, Thursday, November 27, with a Thanksgiving service under the chairmanship of President Miller. President Emeritus S. C. Yoder brought the morning message. Text: Psalm 100:4-5—"Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name. For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

Walter Yoder led the singing: "The God of Harvest Praise," "Praise to God, Immortal Praise," and "Ye Nations Round the Earth Rejoice." It was good to have the family home together again, and to join our hearts and voices in praise and gratefulness to our heavenly Father.

The next persons to star on the program were Miss Phyllis Roose, dietician (Is she ever?), and A. C. Gingerich, Iowa turkey king. There was spiced apple juice, roast turkey with dressing and gravy, mashed potatoes, piquant green beans (they were piquant, all right!), jellied cranberry relish, rolls, butter, pecan pie (um-m-m!), and coffee with the trimmings. The only thing that spoiled it was the fact that only 620 of you were here; we all felt sorry for the rest. As for those long zigzag waiting lines up and down the hall—well, they gave us a chance to meet and talk with one another (three or four times!). By next year we hope to have better accommodations in that new Alumni Memorial Dining Hall.

The after-dinner program was built around the theme "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come." Toasts were given by Lois Meyer King 51 (of the Bethel Mission in Chicago), Bill Pletcher 51 (Northwestern Medical School), and Ray Bair 47 (assistant pastor of the Beech Church, Louisville, Ohio). Leonard Hurst 52 (Northwestern School of Music) raised the song of harvest home, and Charlotte Burkhart 54, Julia Ebersole, 55, Mary Ellen Yoder 54, and Bettie Norman 55 entertained us with a lovely instrumental number: Haydn's Quartet in D Major, first movement. The M.C. was none other than your unworthy servant, who suffered a good many stings and buffets of outrageous toasters, but struck back wildly with all the corny jokes he could muster.

The evening chorus program at 8:00 o'clock was heard by a full house. Charles Burkhart directs the Collegiate Chorus; Mary Oyer, the Motets; Dwight Weldy, the A'Cappella chorus; and Walter Yoder directed the entire combined group in "Now Thank We All Our God," "And the Glory of the Lord," and the "Hallelujah Chorus"—with Charles Burkhart at the Steinway. It was inspiring and impressive, let me tell you. Next year you had better come and hear for yourself. The program was closed with the lovely strains and sentiments of the choral benediction, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

Friday forenoon gave the homecomers a chance to visit their favorite classes and re-hear their favorite professors; also to visit Chapel (Dean Massanari in charge) and get a sampling of the forensic abilities of the new generation at Goshen College. Bonnie Brunk 55 and Tom Diener 55, winners of the women's and men's peace oratorical contests on the campus, gave us adaptations (of adaptations!) of the orations which will in turn represent the college at Taylor University in March—after further grooming at the kind hands of Roy Umble. Also in chapel we witnessed Jerry Brenneman's passing of a check, valued at $6211, to President Miller. (To date the check has not bounced!) Jerry Brenneman is a member of our Y Service Committee, and the check represents the earnings of our Student Work Drive last September. (If any of you know of any other such checks available, please notify President Miller, I. E. Burkhart, or me—or almost anybody on the faculty, Administration, or Board of Education—or their relatives.)

In the afternoon were the usual athletic events: a women's basketball game between Alumni and the College, and a men's game representing the same groups. Scores: for the women 22-19; for the men, 52-36—both in favor of—well, you know who. Same as last year; I won't rub it in.

In the evening an overflow audience traveled with Donald B. MacMillan to the "North, Far North," region of icebergs, polar bears, and bird-eating Eskimos. There were igloos (they are not made of snow after all!), and whales, and walruses (schools of them!), and sea storms, and Moravian missionaries in Newfoundland. There were also kyacks managed by small boys (who knew how to manage them!); and there were glaciers. We took a look at the midnight sun and learned all about the rigging of a schooner. Well, it was some trip!—Congratulations to Professor Smith and the lecture committee.

Between times, old grads got reacquainted, wandered through old familiar halls, or investigated the state of our evolving new kitchen.

All in all, it was a great occasion. It just ended all too soon. Now it's past. You are back at your job; so am I. But we are both richer for the memory of it.

We must now commit one another to our heavenly Father's care until we meet again, next year.

CHRISTMAS COMES TO GOSHEN

First harbinger of things to come was the annual faculty discussion (both long and desultory!) on what to do about absences before and after vacation. (They do it every time!) As usual we lopped a half day off the school year, doubled the fine for class cuts, (only 59¢ dollars, you know) and then dismissed school another half day earlier than the faculty voted. Next came Scrooge, of course (oh, but he was a tight-fisted hand at the grindstone!), in the form of an Adelphian-Vesperian public program. It was thrilling—Marley's ghost, the Crachits and Tiny Tim—they were all there. Congratulations go to Leroy Kennel and his able cast and enthusiastic staff.

Then there was the sophisticated faculty Christmas social, celebrated in art and song. Together we viewed the Madonnas and listened to carols and the Christmas story once again. Then we visited in the holly-decked student lounge over cups of spiced hot punch. We were now getting the feel of it; Christmas was coming.

Chapel talks suddenly took up the theme; carols and serenading became frequent. Then on Sunday it happened—the combined choruses blew the lid off the season completely with Bach's Christmas Oratorio, under the direction of Mary Oyer.

From then on the Christmas spirit took over completely. It was "Merry Christmas" in the halls, and "Merry Christmas" in the dormitories, and "Merry Christmas" even in the classrooms (so-called) until the day of home going. Monday, December 22, was a day of desolation for those of us who stay around. Empty halls have a way of filling my soul with the most strangely wistful and indefinable feelings—some of you know what I mean.

Anyway, it is now 1953 and the halls are full again!

WESTWARD HO !

Apparently unable to expand southward and with Goshen College bursting at the seams, the Executive Committee of the Board, in session in Mid-December, decided to take the bull by the horns! They bought six lots across the road westward. (West is always the way to go for more land.)

The newly acquired lots complete a solid block of 12 in the southeast corner of the addition including eight lots between South Main and Lawndale Place. The area is bounded on the south by High Park Avenue leading to the site of the proposed new city hospital.

The planning committees for the two necessary new buildings—the Goshen College Biblical Seminary and the Nursing School—met on the campus with the Executive Committee of the Mennonite Board of Education to consider building plans. No definite arrangements for building will be made, however, until after the next meeting of the Executive Committee on March 27 and 28. There is already on hand about $185,000 for these two buildings.

But just to keep your temperature normal and your pulse from going berserk, President Miller insists that all concerned say no new buildings will be started until Westlawn is done and furnished!

Well, anyway we have the land. Tolstoi may think six feet enough. Maybe it is for a man—but not for a college.

SOME PROFOUND REFLECTIONS

On September 5, I entered this office with a knowledge of only about four things:

1. That I am a temporary incumbent
2. That Goshen is a mighty good institution
3. That we have a loyal alumni group for which we are deeply appreciative
4. But that contributions at this time are falling off.

May I share with all my old Goshen College friends a few profound (!) reflections upon these observations?

Number one needs no comment. Surely you will all agree that the important and fortunate word in the sentence is "temporary."

That Goshen is a mighty good institution is brought home to us time and again. Aspects of our life here which we take for granted are often commended by visiting inspectors and travelers. Examine our catalogue, look at the pedigrees of the faculty, inspect the statement of our philosophy of education, compare the quality of teaching here with that of other schools in our bracket, note the number of books published by the members of our staff, examine the records made by our graduates—well, use what yardstick you will, we make no apologies for the kind of school we are running. Of course we still need many things—if we weren't a good school we wouldn't! This may sound boastful; it isn't. It is a fact, which ought always be stated with a good deal of humility—but which (at any rate) ought always be stated! I don't know where you will find as large a staff or as earnest a student body with sound basic convictions and the will to do what is right and to suffer for it if and when it is necessary. (Many, incidentally, have suffered for it!) That is something in these days of compromising ethical standards, and shoddy, uninformed thought and conduct. The way in which enrollment has been sustained in recent years (and especially this year) even beyond our expectations bears witness to the fact that our constituency is growing, and that years of sound planning are now bearing fruit.

Certainly no small reason for our soundness is our alumni. Satisfied customers are always the best advertisement. You are our satisfied customers. You are the ones who must sell the school, and obviously judged by the students coming to us, you are doing it! Good! Send us more. You have also through the years sustained us with your interest and means. Please accept our gratitude! We are dependent upon you; either you continue your gracious help or we

SONS AND DAUGHTERS TRUE

One of the many encouragements to us whose lot it is to remain here on the campus is the growing confidence which the Alumni show in their Alma Mater, especially in sending us their sons and daughters. This year there are nearly a hundred such. Evidently you are not too highly disappointed with the returns on your own strenuous investment in Goshen College else you would not now be sending back to us the best that you have!

Yes, we old-timers now frequently find ourselves saying, "Why sure I know you! Your dad and I used to be in the same chemistry class. And by the way, how is your Uncle Ezra? He and I used to. . . ."

Sometimes it is a bit embarrassing, after one is half way through a course, to find out that little Susie, sitting in the front row to the extreme left, is the daughter of your former roommate—and you did not know it! Or that the brilliant chap in the last row, center, is now son of that nice little girl you once had a date with just twenty-three years ago. (Of course you don't tell him about that!) But those are incidents in the strange scintillating pattern of life which add zest and sparkle to it. And if you will forgive us for not seeing the family resemblance at once, we will forgive them (and you) for not barging up the first day to introduce themselves.

Seriously, the Goshen College family is a big one; we cannot be quite the father, mother, sister, or brother which your children have at home. But we appreciate this expression of your confidence and shall endeavor to be worthy of so high a trust. Send us your sons and daughters; it shall be our endeavor to make men and women of them!

Following are listed the sons and daughters of alumni, along with the parent or parents who attended here—some years ago, of course! If our information turns out to be inaccurate or incomplete, it must be because you have not kept the new generation properly informed upon your own (dark?) past; for this information is taken from the returns on a questionnaire which all students fill out when they enter Goshen College. If your little Johnny's name is not listed and should be, it is because he did not tell us that you were here. At any rate, do send in your corrections and bring us up to date.

Dear Faculty of Goshen College:

It is difficult to express my feelings in a letter; but as I was unable to attend Homecoming I'll have to do just that.

I recall very vividly coming to G. C. with many forebodings about "these Mennonites" and with the idea that material things were to be sought after, even by a Minister of the Gospel. I also recall very vividly, leaving G. C. with the opposite views.

It would be unfair to single out any one member of the faculty or student body responsible for my changed attitudes and convictions. I would simply like to say that I thank God that He allowed me to contact the Mennonite Church, and also the privilege of attending Goshen College. I thank Him that I spent three years of my life with a simple, humble, devoted group of Christian Professors. It is impossible for me to say how much I miss G. C. and how much it means to me. I'll humbly say "Thanks" to Goshen College, its faculty and students, and the Church for which it stands, and the God whom she serves, for allowing a Presbyterian to be in its fellowship and under its instruction.

Goshen College is where I saw Christianity lived as never before. It was thrilling to see men and women "practice what they preached." Thanks to each one of you for making God so real to me. I pray that God will bless Goshen College and the Mennonite Church.

The words of Professor Burkholder's chapel prayer come back to me so often: I pray as did he—

"Lord, give us not a task equal to our strength, but a strength equal to our task."

Very sincerely, In His Name,
Fred Speckeen (52)

DEDICATION OF THE NEW CHURCH AT METAMORA

On Sunday, November 16, occurred the dedication of a fine new church structure near Metamora, upon a site donated by J. J. Camp, long-time friend of the college and father of an alumnus and former instructor, Ezra Camp 28.

The Metamora Church was the home church of the late C. Henry Smith, former dean of Goshen College and the author of many well-known works on Mennonite history, and of the late Noah Oyer, dean of Goshen College 1924-30. Pastor of the congregation is H. R. Schertz, father of Robert Schertz x41, and father-in-law of Mrs. Russel Schertz (Lois Mae Schertz x41). The deacon is E. H. Oyer, father of Mrs. S. A. Yoder (Ethel Oyer x31), Mrs. Lloyd Noe (Thelma Oyer 38), Pauline Oyer x35 and Harold Oyer 42. Chairman of the building committee was Clarence Imhoff, husband of Mae Orendorff Imhoff 39, and the contractor was Harold Brooks, father of Carolyn Brooks 55.

The dedicatory service was in charge of the pastor, congregational singing and select chorus numbers were directed by Walter Yoder 33, and the dedicatory sermon was preached by A. J. Metzler, father of Edgar Metzler 53. Other alumni and alumni-related persons on the building or finance committees were Arthur Garber, husband of Alverda Schertz Garber x34; John Bachman, father of Eileen Bachman Schertz x40; Eldon Schertz, husband of Eileen; Arthur Noe, husband of Luella Schrock Noe x42, Albert Sommer x21; E. J. Schertz, father of Wilma Schertz x38, Mrs. Russel Schertz x41, and Vernon Schertz 55; Ralph Imhoff, husband of Mary Nafziger Imhoff a28, and father of Mary Lou Imhoff 56.

On the board of trustees are Elmer Nofziger x21; Tilman Smith 28; and E. W. Neumann x21, father of Dr. Roger Neuman 48.

The ties of Goshen College with the Metamora Congregation are further strengthened in that it is the former home church of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yoder and of Mrs. Roy Umble of our staff.

In addition, there are some sixty members of the alumni who now hold their membership with this congregation.

The alumni take this opportunity of extending to the fortunate members of our family at Metamora our sincere congratulations upon the completion of their new church home. May it be a means of strengthening the life and work of the church in their community.

BUSINESS MEN'S BANQUET

Six-thirty p.m. Saturday, December 6, was the occasion for the annual Business Men's banquet. Over 700 men from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and points beyond assembled in the Union Building for beans and ham. There were also creamed potatoes (some kind of cheese sauce), pickles, olives, celery sticks, rolls, butter, apple pie with ice-cream, coffee, and other things too numerous to mention. The Home Lumber Company furnished the improvised tables, and Phyllis Roose and her staff of helpers (there must have been at least 100, bless their hearts!) outdid themselves in the food and service—seconds on almost anything!

High point of the evening was the program. The Kalona Gospel Singers (Herman Yoder, Gordon Miller, Glen Guengerich 36 and Ora Keiser 31) furnished the music. C. H. Benware, real-estate dealer from Wheaton, Illinois, brought the main address: "Business as a Christian Calling." Contrary to a kind of superficial popular notion, he maintained, "full-time" Christian service is not only for preachers and missionaries. Some are called into business. A Christian business man who follows God's leading finds many opportunities to be a witness which cannot be otherwise found. He is faithful to Christ, his local church, and to his family. He is generally known for his four-square and open-handed dealing. And he is a generous giver.

Mr. Benware is a Gideon. The College is grateful to Mr. Nathan Reiff 25, a Gideon active in the Elkhart Camp, for securing his services for this occasion.

President Miller spoke a few words in his characteristic vein concerning the furnishing of Westlawn —kitchen, dining room, and dormitory rooms—and the building of the Seminary and Nursing School buildings. It is encouraging to know that for the former there is on hand an $85,000 donation, and for the latter there is $100,000 available from a fund raised some years ago for the now abandoned church hospital project.

The zest and spice of toastmaster C. L. Graber gave punch to the meeting. Credit for the unusual attendance and success also goes to Business Manager Leland Bachman, who sent out the invitations and made the arrangements.

This is the kind of united interest and response which adds greatly to the morale of those of us who remain here by the stuff. Seven hundred sympathetic and interested business men—plus hundreds of alumni! What can't we do if we get together with a mind to work?

Djojodihardjo, Leader of the Javanese Mennonite Church and Principal of their Bible School.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE AT GOSHEN COLLEGE

By Marion O. Snyder, President of Foreign Missions Fellowship

For some years the Foreign Missions Fellowship, along with their sponsor, President Miller, and the Missions Study Committee of the Y have been jointly sponsoring a week-end missionary conference on the campus. This year "One world in Christ" was the theme of the Annual Missionary Conference held November 14-16, 1952.

In planning this Conference we thought of the great fields which lie close to us and of the "Open Doors" leading to them. Thus during the sessions of this Conference we considered the "Open Doors" of Latin America, of Africa and of the Far East, particularly of Indonesia. With this in mind we endeavored to secure speakers from these fields who could challenge us with the first hand information of their needs.

Thus, through the efforts of President Miller, we secured such speakers as S. Djojodihardjo, leader of the Javanese Mennonite Church and Principal of their Bible School in Java. Mr. Djojodihardjo spoke to us on three occasions on Sunday. In the morning he brought a challenging missionary message, in the Vesper service he spoke concerning "The Story of the Mennonites in Java," and in the evening he presented "Open Doors in Indonesia." Representing the African field, Mr. Harvey Driver 30, secretary of the Congo Inland Mission, displayed before our eyes the great "unconquered" African continent. Saturday night he presented an illustrated message of the Congo Gospel opportunities. Sunday morning he spoke to the Christian Workers Band, and in the evening he presented the "Open Doors" of Africa along with some practical suggestions for Christian service. We had desired to have a native Latin American to speak about the "Open Doors" in that continent, but finding none available, Mrs. E. K. Higlon, who recently traveled throughout Latin America, presented the "Open Doors" there.

I am sure that this Conference has made us more conscious of our great "debt" to God, a "debt" which we can repay in a small way by offering ourselves to a life of service in His name and for His cause.

On the printed programs of the conference appeared the following impressive list of:

close up shop. The program of Goshen College is dependent financially upon your continued contributions; it takes no mathematical genius to understand that!

That is one reason why it was with some alarm that I examined the pattern of giving over the last number of years. According to the information I have, alumni contributions in 1951 fell from the $45,000 of 1950 to $25,000—almost half. And that in spite of (1) continued inflation and cheaper dollars; (2) a higher dollar income by our alumni, and (3) an increase in the alumni membership of the entire graduating class (almost 200) of 1951! At this rate of decline it takes no mathematical genius to see that we will soon close up shop.

So let us all put our shoulder to the wheel. Thank God for a sound Christian Liberal Arts College, founded and sustained through the years by a lot of hard work and careful, persistent planning.

It is worth supporting! So now let's support it!

CHRISTIANITY IS DISCIPLESHIP

This is a day of many voices. Isms and cults are blaring at us from headlines and radios.

Nationalism is calling! Communism is calling! In this election year various political faiths are calling. In the field of religion, Modernism is calling. Fundamentalism is calling. Missions of all kinds are calling. "Give us your money!" they say. "Give us your youth! Give us your interest and support!" Yes, and some even demand the last full measure of devotion—"Give us your life!"

One is inclined to become cynical. "Give?" mutters the miser. "Of course you want my money! Of course you want me! But I'm going to be nobody's fool!"

However, stewardship demands a different reply. The Christian life is a life of giving—not of hoarding. We must give—but we must give discerningly—to causes which in our innermost consciences are sound and redemptive.

Hence trustworthy causes and institutions wishing to operate honorably owe to their constituencies a continual clarification of the principles by which they operate and for which they stand.

Goshen College is such a cause. It is an institution which is confessedly quite dependent upon the good will and support of many people—some of whom are on the grounds, in the offices and classrooms. Others are more remote. But if Goshen College is to exist, you and I and all of us must continue to make her exist. If we fail, Goshen College will fail. She is at our mercy. Many are the schools and colleges that have closed. Many more will close. Shall Goshen College at some future time join the ranks of the closed? You and I will give the answer "yes" or "no."

What ism or cult, then, is Goshen College?

First, Goshen College is a "Christian" institution. She is not Mohammedan, nor Buddhist, nor Hindu, nor pagan, nor Atheist.

Second, she is Protestant. She is not Greek Orthodox, nor Coptic, nor Roman Catholic.

Third, she is generally recognized as being "evangelical." The word "evangelical" is used to distinguish her from certain types of Protestant Christianity which many feel are not entirely Biblical. It indicates that we still feel that the Bible is different from other books, that it is the Word of God, that its directives, when intelligently read and understood, are binding upon the individual conscience and that there is no alternative. Finally it means that those who know and experience these truths are duty bound to help others find them.

Yet even the word "evangelical" (good as it is) does not finally distinguish Goshen College from certain "sound" institutions whose religious emphasis may be upon some past experience or upon some pious feelings. Some years ago in order to articulate our faith clearly the faculty adopted a statement in which we insist that "the essence of Christianity . . . is discipleship."

Christianity, according to our notion of it, is not mere optimism. To be a Christian is not merely to believe that sometime, somewhere everything will come out all right!

Neither is Christianity merely doing good. Many philanthropic and humanitarian agencies exist today which may or may not be Christian.

Then too the basic and essential question of Christianity is not, "Do you have sweet and pious feelings within?" Though certainly such "feelings" often do and should occur, they do not constitute the essence of Christianity. Neither, in our judgment, is the essential question, "Did you at some time in the past have a cataclysmic and sensational religious experience?" Again, this may very well have happened, but it is not the essential question.

The essential question, in our humble judgment is, "Are you a disciple? Have you chosen freely and finally to follow the Master irrespective of cost? And are you doing so—in your relations with others, in your use of time, energy, money, and everything?"

It is a challenging concept and forces one to deep humility. No one has reached perfection in his discipleship. Yet the essential choice must be made. Shall I take up the cross? Or shall I spurn it?

Discipleship, then, at Goshen College, is a synonym for man's part in Christianity. Does a cause such as this interest you? Are you concerned in an institution which is bold and indiscreet enough to fling this challenge into the very teeth of a world replete with selfish greed, hatred, and violence?

May we enlist you with us in this enterprise of discipleship?

GOSHEN ALUMNUS WINS HONORS IN CHEMISTRY

The Chemical and Engineering News of November 17, 1952, carries the following article:

"Baton Rouge Section Announces Annual Award Winners.

"Octavio G. Romero and Jacques L. Savoy are the recipients of the ACS Baton Rouge Section's annual awards to the outstanding juniors in chemistry and chemical engineering at Louisiana State University. The award is a year's membership in the AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY and the recipient's choice of a year's subscription to the Journal of The American Chemical Society or Industrial and Engineering Chemistry."

Mr. Romero is a member of the Alumni family, x52.

The AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY (with a membership of over 66,000) advertises itself as "the world's largest body devoted to a single science." We rejoice with this member of the family in the recognition accorded him by this highly distinguished society!

THE HERTZLER-HARTZLER FAMILY HISTORY

Under the above title Dr. Silas Hertzler, head of our teacher training faculty, has gathered together and published the biographical data on 8757 families. The family history represents eleven generations living in each of the forty-eight states and in many foreign countries. There are 773 pages, 106 of which give family information (genealogical, geographical, occupational, etc.) via tables and general descriptive materials. The book is also conveniently indexed, which adds to its value a great deal.

Jacob Hertzler, the patriarch who started all this, was born in Switzerland in 1703, landed in Philadelphia on September 9, 1749, and settled on a farm two miles west of Hamburg in Berks County, Pennsylvania. The first hundred acres of this farm was purchased from William and Thomas Penn on January 9, 1750. Jacob Hertzler was the first Amish Mennonite Bishop in the United States.

The book was published by the author and copies can be purchased from him for $5.25. It was printed by the Economy Printing Concern, Inc., at Berne, Indiana.

So now you Hertzlers, Hartzlers, and in-laws—here is your opportunity to trace your maternal and paternal lineage to its proper source, and to locate your particular branch on the family tree. Perhaps the rest of us ought to buy the book just to see if by some fortunate happenstance any of our forefathers got themselves married to a lovely young scion of the family.

Dr. Silas Hertzler

From Kyto-fu, Japan, to Ludwigshaven, Germany "It is a wonderful thing to live and work together!"

Dear Miss Good:

It seems to me long, long ago that I left America and that I am back again in Germany. The first time being home is quite a busy time but now after I settled down a little bit I want to send you some lines; lines of deep appreciation for the wonderful time I was privileged to have in Goshen College. . . . It is a wonderful thing to live and work together with people who know the Lord, in an atmosphere of Christian discipleship as I experienced it in the past year in Goshen College and today already I feel how much harder it will be for me to live up to my convictions as a child of God after I'll be back at the Heidelberg University. The daily chapel, the singing together of the beloved hymns as well as the prayer meetings in the evening are also such opportunities which are not enough recognized by the students because they take it for granted. I myself would like to express my deep appreciation at this place for the spirit which reigns in Goshen College. I want to thank each one of the faculty and also of the student body who has helped me during this past year to deepen my faith in Jesus Christ and to be more able for my work among our German Mennonite youth. God bless you all and give you all grace and mercy to take advantage of the opportunities which are given to the American youth while it isn't too late yet. . . .

Heartily yours,
Margot Stauffer
Ludwigshafen, Germany.

THE HEALING ARTS ARE SACRED!

(Dr. Glen R. Miller, closely associated with our premedical students and curriculum for many years, has the following thoughts to offer on the medical profession.)

Back in the late forties, after the young men came back to Goshen College, a number of them that chose a medical career told me that it was while working in the mental institutions that they became keenly aware of the need for Christian doctors. This feeling was so widespread among those who had been in mental hospitals that one young man tried to rise to the need even though he did not have the ability or background for a medical career. Later he was wise enough to see his mistake for himself and chose a field of service more suitable to his talents, and is now happy and useful in another field of service.

I think of another capable and talented young man with a tremendous drive to become a Christian doctor. There were those who thought he had to enter the ministry or join the college faculty, but he knew what he wanted to do. I predict that his will be a ministry not only of the healing of the body, but a ministry that will bring peace and restoration to many a troubled mind as well. Recently a nurse that had worked for one of our doctors (I confess a possessive feeling for all of our own graduates now practicing medicine) wrote him a letter expressing the wish, if the opportunity ever offered, to return. Her chief reason was that she appreciated greatly a doctor that put his Christianity to such good use. To doctors come many who are in trouble, who need help. What an opportunity for Christian counsel!

In the preparation of the premedic there is much that is specified in chemistry, physics, biology. But the medical schools themselves are asking for a broader background. They want men that know something about history, economics, art, public speaking, or psychology. They are asking for men that will be public-minded citizens, that will be community minded and capable in more ways than in medicine. Goshen College would add to that a desire that our future doctors be well trained in the art of spiritual guidance and personal counseling. Certainly when our young men are recommended as candidates for a medical school, character and personality are strongly considered. High grades are desirable, but high grades are perhaps not the most critical ingredient for success. All of us have met individuals that have had a curative effect on us simply by the cheerful, considerate, bracing nature of their contacts. We have left them with new hope and new appreciation for what love does between men.

A medical career is a rugged one. From the grades through college—sixteen years of going to school! With severe competition for places in good medical schools, the candidate faces the possibility that he may be denied entrance. For this reason, any prospective medical school candidate should analyze well his own background and ability—his own personality, health, and motives. In this self-analysis competent help should be sought.

For those that are accepted at Indiana University, Hahnemann, Northwestern, Temple, Western Reserve, Iowa, Kansas University, Jefferson, or Michigan, there are four more years of hard but intensely interesting work. There is a possibility of failure either in grades or health. The expense is great. And as though twenty years of schooling were not enough, a minimum of one year as an intern is required before beginning a practice. Then there are the problems of securing a license to practice, of locating, of opening an office (more expense), and of waiting for the patients to come in. As they do come in, the problems increase. Serious decisions have to be made. One that is troubled and ill is capable of being unreasonable. A new doctor is bothered by drug addicts, called out in the middle of the night for no good reason at all, or patronized by those who fail to pay. Often he is called upon as a last resort when the patient is beyond remedy and then his is the blame for the death. An ill-advised patient may have been treated by a grandmother's potion, or by some pseudo doctor. When it becomes apparent that death is a possibility and that the cheap remedies are failing, then a bona fide doctor may be expected to do the impossible.

Yes, a doctor's life is not an easy one. He lives under tension and may die relatively young from a heart attack. And doctors do become weary. But in what profession do you find so many men serving on and on until they do literally drop? And now it becomes clear that they are not working for money. They could have retired long since. It is then that one becomes aware of the real drive that keeps many doctors going. They know their own value in terms of years of training and experience and they must serve. They know they are sorely needed. And they like people.

Medicine is also a calling which is greatly needed in many foreign and dark spots of earth. Healing of body is akin to healing of soul, and has been so during and ever since the days of Jesus. Whatever one believes about medical missions and mission hospitals, the cold fact remains that when one goes out to minister to the unprivileged masses of the earth, almost the first thing they expect is help for their physical aches and pains. Their need is often desperate; perhaps there is no better door of entry into their heart and confidence than the door of human kindness, opened by way of sympathetic ministration to their desperate physical plight. A life of service to such sore need is tremendously rewarding!

Of course there are unscrupulous, mercenary, and characterless doctors. There are those that aim only at the dollar. There are also drug addicts and drunkards. For this reason there lies in the field of medicine all the greater challenge to him who would be a Christian doctor.

SING TIME

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of the annual Goshen College chorus tours. For if there is anything which characterizes life on our campus it is our very strong a cappella singing tradition, be it in chapel, in smaller student gatherings, or in our regularly organized choruses.

Goshen College has three chorus groups: (1) the Collegiate Chorus, under the direction of Charles Burkhart; (2) the Motet Singers, directed by Mary Oyer; (3) and the A Cappella Chorus, directed by Dwight Weldy.

The Collegiate Chorus normally does not make a scheduled tour. This year, as usual, they are appearing in a number of the churches in northern Indiana, as well as in programs on the campus.

With the exception of a brief excursion by the Motets into Illinois, the two traveling chorus groups both go eastward this year—into Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, and Ontario, Canada.

Through the good work of Paul Stoll and our Public Relations Office, the following itineraries have been worked out and (through much correspondence) approved. If you should chance to be in the neighborhood of any of these churches at the date indicated, you had better do yourself the favor of stopping in to worship and listen. You will not be sorry.

"SO SHINES A GOOD DEED IN A NAUGHTY WORLD"

Some 500 persons braved rains and mud on the evening of January 23 to help celebrate the third Candle Lighting Service of the Goshen College School of Nursing, for the newly inducted members of the class of '55.

Under the chairmanship of President Miller, the program opened with devotions led by President Emeritus S. C. Yoder. Robert Hartzler 41, pastor of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, brought the main address on "Mastering Our Motives." Love, he contended, must be the hidden motive which furnishes the dynamic for the sacred arts of healing.

Other features of the program were the Nurses' Chorus, directed by Pauline Graybill 53, and the presentation of the Gideon white Testaments to each of the pledgees by Mrs. H. E. Wiegner, Chaplain of the Gideon Auxiliary of Elkhart.

Miss Mosemann, Director of the School of Nursing, had charge of the candle lighting. It was a delightfully solemn experience to witness the class in white uniforms, each with her lighted candle and white Testament in hand, soberly recite the pledge.

Following the program, refreshments were served to approximately 250 parents and friends in the Union Lounge. Mrs. E. E. Miller and Miss Esther Witmer, R.N., Director of Nursing Service of Elkhart General Hospital, poured. Anna May Charles, R.N., and Dorothy Stover, R.N., of our Nursing staff were in charge.

The College was glad to welcome doctors and other medical personnel from the community—staff nurses from Elkhart General Hospital, from the Elkhart District Nurses' Association, and from the Elkhart Public Health Unit—as well as doctors from the Goshen Hospital Board.

Certainly not the least appreciated of our guests were the parents, many of whom traveled some distance to witness this service. Deeply appreciated, also, was the token of good will from our sister School of Nursing at La Junta in the form of a lovely floral tribute.

MY FIRESIDE CHAT

It is an enormous risk for a greenhorn to undertake publishing the news. In fact, it's a good deal of a risk for anybody to do anything. It's less hazardous just to sit still. That way one does not make any mistakes.

It's a double risk to jump into a new job suddenly—while trying to do the old one too! It's so risky, in fact, that one is very likely to lose face and reputation (possibly even his shirt!). But it is a lot of fun!

One thing let's have clear! If you have a brand-new seven-pound baby boy, or a fresh hot Ph.D., or if the brethren have voted you a bishopric and you are now sporting a brand-new celluloid collar—and you want to see your achievement in the NEWS-LETTER but won't tell us about it and consequently do not see it there—well, that's your liability! There are some 6,000 on our mailing list and it's getting bigger all the time. We are not going to send a news correspondent to interview you—that's for sure! If you send us the dope and we do not publish it, then (unless it's not fit to be published) you have a perfect right to use the guillotine on the editor!

Frankly, the editor is open to any new good ideas you have to offer on the matter of these personal news items. Obviously, we do not get all the news. Then there is always the temptation to keep the names prominent in church and community life in the news, simply because we know more about their comings and goings.

Shall we discontinue the personals entirely? Sometimes I am tempted to. A family of six thousand is too big to keep track of. Other possibilities would be to publish only such items as are sent in directly to the Alumni Office for publication in the NEWS-LETTER, or to limit the personals to only a page or two of really earth-shaking achievements by V I P's!

Anyway, what would you do?

JOT IT DOWN IN YOUR LITTLE RED BOOK!

Memorial Day, May 30, 1953, six o'clock P.M.—the Alumni Dinner in the new Alumni Memorial Dining Hall in Westlawn Residence for Women. It's the fiftieth anniversary, you know!

HATS OFF TO THE FOUNDING FATHERS

No doubt you all recall clearly how that fifty years ago this coming June 12 two trolley car loads of folk made the trek from Elkhart to Goshen for the ground-breaking ceremony in Shoup's wheat field at the south end of Eighth Street. After a good deal of speechifying by worthy townsmen and church fathers, J. S. Hartzler held the plow while C. P. Yoder drove the team—and Goshen College was born! If ever there was an act of faith that was one! (Too bad about the wheat—it was only June 12, you know!)

That was fifty years ago. Those pioneers had vision and courage. We have entered into their labors. In view of the trials and tribulations which lay ahead, one almost wonders that God allowed them to put their necks out the way they did! At any rate, we now know what they did not—a lot of blood, sweat, and tears still lay ahead!

Due to their vision and faith there is a Goshen College today, a sound College with hundreds of students, thousands of graduates, and an enthusiastic and united constituency.

This spring and fall we are going to pause to honor those adventurers in faith. You will be hearing more about this! Better plan to join us either for the Alumni Dinner this spring, or in the further celebration next autumn. Stop in, look us over, join in the birthday anniversary festivities. Then doff your hat for a moment to the memory of a generation of heroes, who built for the future!

TO THOSE WHO CUT AND GRIND AND JAB AND PUNCH

Obviously this issue of the NEWS-LETTER is dedicated largely to Goshen College premedics and nursing students—in other words, to the healing arts, to the doctors who cut, to the dentists who grind, to the nurses who jab, and to the osteopaths who punch! (Incidentally, my personal experience does not warrant the buoyant reputation which "a shot in the arm" somehow has got for itself!)

At any rate, Goshen College has graduated a lot of fellows who are M.D.'s, and as the years go on there are going to be many more. And with our nursing school soon to turn out its first graduates, there are going to be a lot of nurses too!

As to that long list of M.D.'s in this issue, it no doubt has some mistakes. But if you think such a work of art comes without effort you are mistaken. Credit goes to my faithful student helper, Helen Kaufman, who mailed out about a hundred inquiries, and organized and tabulated her findings from many sources.

Should you know of any mistakes (of omission or commission) do please send in your corrections!

WINTER BIBLE SCHOOL AND ITS CONCOMITANTS

Opening weeks of the second semester this year, as in former years, were marked by the Winter Bible School and its accompanying events. Under the principalship of Paul Miller, of our Seminary faculty, the regular Winter Bible School enrolled thirty students in various Bible, music, and church and Sunday-school workers' courses.

Of perhaps greater significance were the evening classes, drawing an attendance of as high as 145, largely of commuters from the community. Also during the first three weeks, there was a special ministers' school, drawing a registration of some twenty-five preachers, as follows:

Allen Bixler, Kidron, Ohio
Earley Bontrager, Middlebury, Indiana
Rudy Borntrager, Fort Wayne, Indiana
Menno J. Brunk, Harrisonburg, Virginia
Edward Diener, Clarence, New York
Loren Dietzel, Bay Port, Michigan
Ephraim Gingerich, Zurich, Ontario
Jency Hershberger, North Judson, Indiana
Paul Hummel, Millersburg, Ohio
Donald Jantzi, Adams, New York
Nelson Kanagy, West Liberty, Ohio
Abram Kaufman, Plain City, Ohio
Donald King, Pigeon, Michigan
Abram K. Landis, Bridgewater Corners, Vermont
Verl Lehman, Mill Creek, Indiana
E. J. Leinbach, Moorepark, Michigan
Lester Mann, Goshen, Indiana
William A. Miller, Bremen, Ohio
Olen Nofziger, Wauseon, Ohio
Tobias Slaubaugh, Montgomery, Indiana
Ralph Stahly, Wakarusa, Indiana
Henry Stoll, Rensselaer, Indiana
Henry Wyse, Archbold, Ohio
Harold A. Yoder, Middlebury, Indiana
Ray Yoder, Wakarusa, Indiana
Amos Yontz, Goshen, Indiana

This ministers' school culminated in a concentrated series of services ("Ministers' Week") running from Wednesday, February 11, to Friday, February 13. Featured speakers, in addition to those of our own seminary, were George R. Brunk, Milton G. Brackbill, and Nelson Litwiller. The daily schedule for the three-day period was as follows:

8:45 Devotion .... Moderator
9:00 How to Modify Our Program to More Effectively Achieve Our God-given Task .... George R. Brunk
9:40 The Believer and His Lord .... Nelson Litwiller
  Wednesday—Crucified with Christ
  Thursday—Risen with Christ
  Friday—Waiting for Christ
10:35 Making Full Use of Our Pastoral Opportunities .... Milton G. Brackbill
11:30 Studies in the Gospel of John
  Howard H. Charles
12:25-1:20 Noon Lunch Period
1:20 The Minister and His Bible .... John C. Wenger
2:15 The Minister's Task in Recruiting and Supporting Church Workers
  Nelson Litwiller
3:10 The Church Strengthening Our Homes
  George R. Brunk

Beyond the formal program many ministers also visited seminary classes freely and seemed to enjoy that privilege.

The Christian Life Conference, February 6-8, was built around the theme of "Strengthening the Christian Life Through Better Family Living." Modern panel and symposium techniques added interest and variety to the presentation of topics. Under the chairmanship of President Miller and Howard Kauffman, the program was carried through as follows:

Prerequisites for Better Family Living

Setting Spiritual Goals .... Harold Bauman
Developing a Wholesome Personality

January 4, 1953
Pusan, Korea

Dear Dr. Massanari:
Greetings in His name.

It has been quite long time since I left the Goshen College. It was 1951-52 but during the past couple of years I had been getting the "Record" and it often reminded me the campus as well as the school activities.

Now I am in Korea and long for the school life in the United States. Today is January 4 and this is the first letter of this year 1953. The 1952, for me, it was a dramatical year. I traveled by boat, air, and bus and I have changed the place from the world's most clean, convenient and peaceful country to the world's most troubled spot of Korea. I arrived here in Pusan about a month ago and found my family in safe but the safety which you might think in the U.S. is entirely different. It is hard to describe the situation we, Koreans have faced now. We have plenty of beggars, orphans, disabled war-veterans, and plenty of dust, but there isn't enough house to live, food to eat, and clothing to wear. There is no end to describe such unnatural phenomena which largely due to this war. . . . Quite often the Goshen College reminds me good many friends, faculty members and their families. They were so kind to me while I was in the Goshen College. I would like to hear from you and give my best regards to your wife and your three sons.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Wha Sook Suh 52

GOSHEN HAS A CONSTITUENCY!

It is something of a thrill to occupy the ringside seat of the Alumni Office and see the checks come in! Day after day the mailman brings in the very tangible fruits of your interest and sacrifice.

Yet we who have shared the common life of our dear campus are not the only ones who are impelled to share in the mutual endeavor of Goshen College. God has put it into the hearts of many others to help us carry the load. Many there are who accept the challenge of helping to put the Go in Goshen!

Hence, though all colleges that are dependent upon endowment and gifts are in a critical situation, yet Goshen is in one respect highly fortunate. She has a well-defined constituency. There are schools whose constituency is scattered and irregular in its support, whose loyalties are not well anchored, and whose group spirit is disintegrating. In these times of nationalism and secularism, when Americans are prone to worship bigness, it is easy for one whose devotion never was quite one hundred per cent, or for one whose loyalties are too manifold, to forget his youthful ideals.

Not so Goshen College fans! We have a comparatively small but devoted group who stick by us! As a book salesman in my office put it some time ago, we know where to go when we need help.

And to Alumni it is bracing to know that the family of Goshen College reaches out far beyond those of us who have shared a bit of life here together on the campus. We, indeed, should be interested! But there are those who have not joined in the daily chapel hymn, nor broken bread together in the dining hall, nor shared in the "gab" sessions in the dormitories, nor taken a moonlight stroll back to the dam, nor joined the riotous merrymaking of a skating party at the College Cabin, nor poured out their common petitions in an evening prayer meeting, nor endured together the stimulation of a challenging class discussion. To win from these a consistent, year-in, year-out devotion which finds expression in good hard cash is indeed appreciated!

Extra-Alumni support for Goshen comes mainly from Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio. Pennsylvania, New York, and Iowa also send considerable help, though aside from the Alumni, Goshen must share the loyalties in these states with other colleges.

An interesting development over the years is the slowly increasing number of donors. Yet a parallel development is that of smaller gifts, so that the actual cash coming in is not increasing. The smaller contributions may result from the very great and growing number of competing charitable organizations and institutions, all making their bids for funds.

Be that as it may, the number of non-Alumni contributors and contributions is still considerably greater than those of the Alumni.

Non-Alumni gifts come to us primarily through the personal solicitation of the field secretary (who does personal solicitation) and by way of bequests and annuities. There is also the occasional congregation which does its own solicitation by means of a committee or force of voluntary solicitors. In such voluntary solicitation work the alumnus often finds himself working side by side with the non-Alumni solicitor.

It's a good work! Keep it up.

Correction: Hear ye! Hear ye! Be it known that if the name of Richard Yoder, M.D., does not appear on the editorial page as fifth member of the Executive Committee it is the fault of the printer and not of the editor. This error has been carried long enough!

Correction: We regret the rather serious error of having put Barbara Snyder 52 both in Iowa and in Puerto Rico in the same issue. Apologies to her brother Jim 51, who is the one who is in Puerto Rico.

Also the name of Ruth Lederach, R.N., 48 was omitted from the list of Goshen College Alumni around the world. She has been serving in Dr. Lambie's Clinic in Bethlehem, Palestine, for well over a year under the MCC. Congratulations, Ruth, on your remarkable service vision and opportunity; we didn't mean to miss you.

Mrs. Freeman Schrock wbs 40, of Burr Oak, Michigan, writes that she is busy as a homemaker while her husband farms 350 acres. The Schrocks have two children, a son Donald in the fourth grade and a daughter Judith in the third grade.

Dale Swartzendruber x50 in graduate study in Soil Physics at Iowa State Agricultural College was elected to the Sigma Xi honorary scholastic fraternity recently. His election was based upon his research activity. Mrs. Swartzendruber (Kathleen Yoder x47) works in a seed laboratory at Ames, Iowa.

Una Cressman x48, missionary on furlough from the Argentine Chaco, has accepted a position in the Red Cross Hospital, Hornepayne, Ontario, until April 5. She writes: "An experience of this kind would be more practical in my work in the Chaco than to do nursing in any of our city hospitals."

Mrs. Roman Stutzman (Marianna Reiff x38), Lois Mann x55, and Maro Myers x54 are members of the MRC Hospital Service Unit at 2515 Holmes, Kansas City 8, Missouri.

From 22, Rue Roberts Jones, Uccle, Bruxelles, Belgique, Irena Liechty 52 writes concerning her experience in language school:

"Since September 15, I have been attending classes in French at the Colonial School. So my time is well taken going to classes Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday forenoon. Then I also take four private lessons every week. So I spend my time studying. I understand it much better than I did and this is rather a good feeling, at least not to be lost entirely when you hear it spoken. Then to be able to speak it a little and others be able to understand you is also a good feeling. Well, I usually carry a small dictionary with me so I can look up words if necessary. At least I finished my Christmas shopping the other day and felt happy to get it done, but things like this really help our French. But it is a difficult language to learn since there are so many exceptions to the rule.

"This year there are about 150 missionaries here. Many are from America, some from Canada, England, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark. Some are doctors, some nurses, some teachers, and others are wives here with their husbands. There are also many missionary children. We have monthly meetings and also a prayer meeting every Wednesday evening which is a real blessing to us."

Ruby Thiessen 52, 122 Yamamoto dori, 4 Chome Itatuku, Kobe, Japan, writes: "It's lots of fun shopping when you can't talk the Japanese and the clerk can't speak English. Anyhow I usually manage to get what I want and he manages to get my money. The food adjustment is not very great. Many things are available on the market especially in the line of green vegetables. Meat is expensive but available and one must be careful to select a clean place when buying it. The island of Kuyshu is more primitive; so most of our adjustments will come later.

"Tonight Bernard went to the services at the MCC unit in Osaka. Carl Beck preached in Japanese. This afternoon we heard through Harold Yoder's that Mary Ann Hostetler and Ruth Bean are here in Japan. We did not have time to stop to see the Carl Kreider's when we docked at Yokohama, but do trust that we shall see them before very long. It certainly feels good to hear and see former Goshen-ites."

FROM THE CLASS LETTER OF THE CLASS OF '46

We are both back at Salem again and find each year of teaching different and interesting. We spent the month of July vacationing in the East and Canada. We were at Philadelphia on the fourth and saw Benjamin Franklin.

Hours through the cities of Quebec, Montreal, and Ottawa, a boat trip around the Thousand Islands, Saturday night in Niagara Falls ended our stay in Canada. We then made a fast trip home.

Dorothy Powell & Leda Litwiller, Hudson, Indiana

I'm at the same place (Honeyville School) and doing the same thing, teaching science and social studies.

A new experience that I have been enjoying is the participation in a radio broadcast, CHRIST FOR TODAY, over WTRC, Elkhart, Indiana. This Gospel broadcast is sponsored by the Ambassadors for Christ, a group of Mennonite laymen interested in evangelism.

Paul L. Yoder, 216 E. Purl St., Goshen, Indiana

We are living on the Bethel College campus and find the environment wholesome and stimulating. We had planned to build a modest home on the campus, but this has been postponed until next summer.

At present I am serving as manager of the Mennonite Publication Office of our Conference. In addition to this work at the Publication Office, I am serving as interim pastor of the Eden Mennonite Church, Moundridge, Kansas. Peter Dyck is the pastor of this congregation, and he is attending Seminary this year. We do not have the full task of being pastor, but more correctly stated, being a preacher taking care of the public services.

Abe M. Wiebe, 722 Main, Newton, Kansas

To begin with, the summer of 1951 Maxine and I spent working at Laurelville Mennonite Camp. For us, that proved to be one of our best summers ever experienced. But from that point things really began happening: In October, '51, I was ordained to the ministry at Blooming Glen. For the time being I was to assist Paul Lederach in the work there. Two weeks after my ordination we had a full week of Youth Conference and revival meetings at church and during that busy and hectic week the Lord blessed us with a baby girl, Elizabeth Ann. While all this was going on Paul Lederach took a week off—quite ill at home in bed. And there I was—second week in the ministry, a new papa, and a week of special meetings. Well, I survived and now as I look back over the past year it makes me feel like an old veteran.

Dave & Maxine Derstine, Blooming Glen, Pa.

After the year 1947-48 and a Summer Session at Goshen, I transferred to Western Illinois State College. I received a B.S. in Education at W.I.S.C. in 1950. During the summer of 1949 I met a girl—too many details—we were married in June, 1950. My wife (Doris Reynolds, Greenville College, Illinois, 1948) lived in a trailer at the University of North Carolina during the school year 1950-51, where I received a Master's Degree in Physical Education, in June of '51. We moved to Niantic, Illinois, from North Carolina, where I was high-school coach and taught biology and American history. This year I am engaged in construction work. We have two sons, Joseph Allen, born March 12, 1951, and David Emery, born April 26, 1952.

Allen Schrock, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

Two afternoons a week I teach Bible to the fifth- and sixth-grade pupils of Scottdale public schools. I'm getting quite involved in P.T.A. work, also. We are now starting Child-Study groups. This week we man the canteen when the Bloodmobile comes to town. Life is full but interesting!

Winifred Erb Paul, 12 Park Ave., Scottdale, Pa.

John completed his seminary work in Princeton in June and by the middle of the summer we were getting settled here in West Willow. This is a small country town several miles south of Lancaster, and convenient for us because it is only about two miles from the church for which we are responsible, the Pequea Brethren in Christ. We are not supported financially here; so John has returned again to accounting at Millersville State Teachers' College.

Alice Grace (Hostetter) Zercher,
Box 53, West Willow, Pennsylvania

Paul continues to like his work at Whitehall Pharmical Company here in Elkhart (makers of Anacin and Kolynos tooth paste) and I am still a secretary for the sales managers of the Excel Corporation here in Elkhart. We make the types of windows on the sides of cars (wing ventilators, side door sash, rear quarter sash) and trucks, trailer windows, school bus windows, and grilles for the White Motor trucks. We sell to Nash, Studebaker, Hudson, Packard, Diamond T, to mention a very few.

Carolyn Hertzler, 1701 Morton Ave., Elkhart, Ind.

Vince, I and the kiddies—Judy 5 and Billy Vince 2—are quite busy. Vince has been working in Shelby, Ohio. January 1 he starts in Columbus again; so we are all moving back. We're trying hard to get back and settled before the holidays. December 12 is set for moving day and there is a lot of work to be done yet.

Rosemary Miller James,
247 Westwood Rd., Columbus 14, Ohio

We moved in June to a farm about halfway between Goshen and Middlebury. I must confess that with the onset of winter my enthusiasm has dimmed somewhat. But we do like it, and in good weather it's wonderful for Trudy.

Dorothy Blough, R. 1, Goshen, Indiana

Since June of 1947 we have been living here in Elkhart, serving as pastor of the McCoy Memorial Baptist Church. Also, we have two daughters who were born while we have been here—Janet Lynn, 2½ years old, and Joan Beth, 15 months old.

I have resigned as pastor of this church and plan to assume our duties as pastor of the Glen Park Baptist Church of Gary, Indiana, January 4, 1953.

James Gurley, 123 Foster Ave., Elkhart, Indiana

In August we started to build a house of our own. It is located just a little over a mile from here; so our address will still be the same. We hope to be able to move before the end of the year. Lloyd has been doing double duty these past months—chemist in the evening and a carpenter by day.

I'm teaching first grade again this year and have 35 pupils.

Helen Frantz, R. 3, Goshen, Indiana

This finds me in the fourth month of general practice. It has been more interesting than I anticipated. There has been a fair share of surgery, O.B., fractures, and medical problems. We have moved into a large house across the street from the office.

We attend the Toto Mennonite Church.

Glenola & Earl Leinbach, Hamlet, Indiana

John is attending the University of Chicago this year. The tuition is terribly high, but it is nice to be close to family and friends, and especially nice to be living in a little Mennonite community as we are here at the seminary. We're located about 1½ miles from the University. I have been doing private duty nursing at the Woodlawn Hospital, which is about 2½ miles from the University.

John & Carol Oyer,
4644 Woodlawn Ave., Chicago, Illinois

Our summer was chucked full of new experiences, the most unusual being our trip to New York bringing 93 Fresh Air children along back to our community. The Herald Tribune in New York City pays the transportation for the children and escorts. Families in our community keep the children. We had a five-year-old Puerto Rican girl and she was dear. She saw her first grass, trees, cows, horses, and many other animals. She ate her first meat, cocoa, green vegetables, and fish here. She said her mother cooks only beans and rice. She thoroughly enjoyed summer Bible school.

Esther (Eash) Yoder,
Box 147, R. 1, Grantsville, Maryland

Kenneth was discharged as a patient from the sanatorium on August 9 and came to live with us at his folks' home until we all moved to our present apartment on the sanatorium grounds. We moved the middle of October and Ken assumed his duties as a physician on the staff here at that time. We thought they were going to ease him into the job, and they don't give him as full a schedule as the other doctors have, but he is doing more all along. There is a nursing school here, and one of Ken's duties is to teach a three-hour course in dietetics for eight weeks. He has charge of a ward of 35 women, many of whom have diabetes in addition to tuberculosis.

Kenneth & Ruth,
Blue Ridge Sanatorium, Charlottesville, Virginia

At the end of December we are going into Children's Home work. We are taking over, or I should say, took over the first of October an already existing Protestant Children's Home. (MRC had given aid to this home earlier; Esther Eby had served a year in the Foyer.) Up until now we have been taking care of all the old "unfinished business" there was in connection with the home, plus the current marketing and necessary administrative business. Of course we have been house-hunting too.

Wilma Shank,
64 rue des Artistes, Brussels 2, Belgium

For me Goshen College is different this year. During the six preceding years I had one or two sons in college. That era is past. Also last spring I ended the third round of sponsoring a class. So you see I am now somewhat adrift. Of course there are some weighty research problems at hand.

Glen Miller (sponsor), Goshen College

I.M.S. this year is bigger than ever, with 143 students, an increase of 23 over last year's enrollment. The incoming freshman class numbers 41, as does also the graduating class. I have English III and English IV and three sections of typing.

At 4:00 a.m. the day following our last day of school in May, Alice Miller, one of the other teachers, and I left Iowa for points west, via a little green Ford by the name of Henry. With Oregon as our final destination we took a roundabout way, hitting Hesston, Kansas, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, California, en route. La Junta, Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Painted Desert, Yosemite Park, and Redwood Avenue were some of the points of interest we took in along the way.

Ada Schrock, Kalona, Iowa

Since graduating I have taught mostly reading and spelling for four years at Concord School. Three of these years were before Dale E. Martin and I decided we wanted a home of our own. At that time my husband operated Martins' Service here in Dunlap. Now he is a plumber for eight hours a day. For another eight hours he does almost anything, giving very much time as assistant chief to the Concord Township Volunteer Fire Department.

I am a member of the "Christian Service Guide" of the Dunlap E.U.B. Church and a newly organized home economics club. I also get to most of the programs on the Music Lecture course at the college.

Sylvia (Schrock) Martin,
306 Harding Rd., Elkhart, Indiana

Summertime found me back in Scottdale "pinch-hitting on The Mennonite Community staff and carrying a little responsibility in the Herald office.

It's interesting the number of former friends and acquaintances one finds when coming to a church institution. For example, among the employees here are a number of former G.C. students of our day. Marie Kauffman is housemother and librarian at Miller Hall, the nurses' home and educational center. Edna Amstutz is serving this year as director of the School of Nursing. Zelma Brunk and Florence Grieser are the other members of the nursing school faculty. Florence Nafziger is director of nursing service for the current year. Virginia Gomoll is the laboratory technician. Mary Kay's younger sister, Sarah Plank, is 3-11 supervisor. Martha Grove supervises the operating room.

Glenn Martins arrived in town today. Glenn is to replace Clyde Mosemann as chaplain. Albert Miller stopped at the hospital a few minutes the other evening while waiting to change trains. Roy and Carol Ruth and their three daughters were here for special services. Last week end Millard Lind and Paul Lederach were in the community when the Commission held its meeting at a neighboring church. A few weeks ago Ruth Bean and Mary Ann Hostetler stopped off for 20 or 30 minutes. They were en route to San Francisco to sail for Japan. Oh, yes, Mary Lou Farmwald Snyder was a patient in the hospital since I came, as was also Clara Esch Headrick's father-in-law. And I almost forgot to mention Don Snapp, who works in the admissions and accounts office at present, and Dan Kauffman who was here yesterday for a committee meeting.

Catherine Hernley,
Mennonite Hospital, La Junta, Colorado

Several days ago I heard from the travel agency that the freighter on which I'm to go, SS Steel Traveler, will be stopping at Beirut, Alexandria, Port Said, Aden, Karachi, then Bombay. I've visas for Egypt and Pakistan only; so I can't know about our disembarking in Lebanon and Arabia.

Second grade is to be my job at Kodaikanal—which begins the middle of January. No doubt you've all heard that for a while visas were being refused in nearly wholesale manner. Apparently the squeeze is over, and I believe Flisher's will be reapplied for. To date, nothing has been heard from Blosser's application.

Ruby Hostetler,

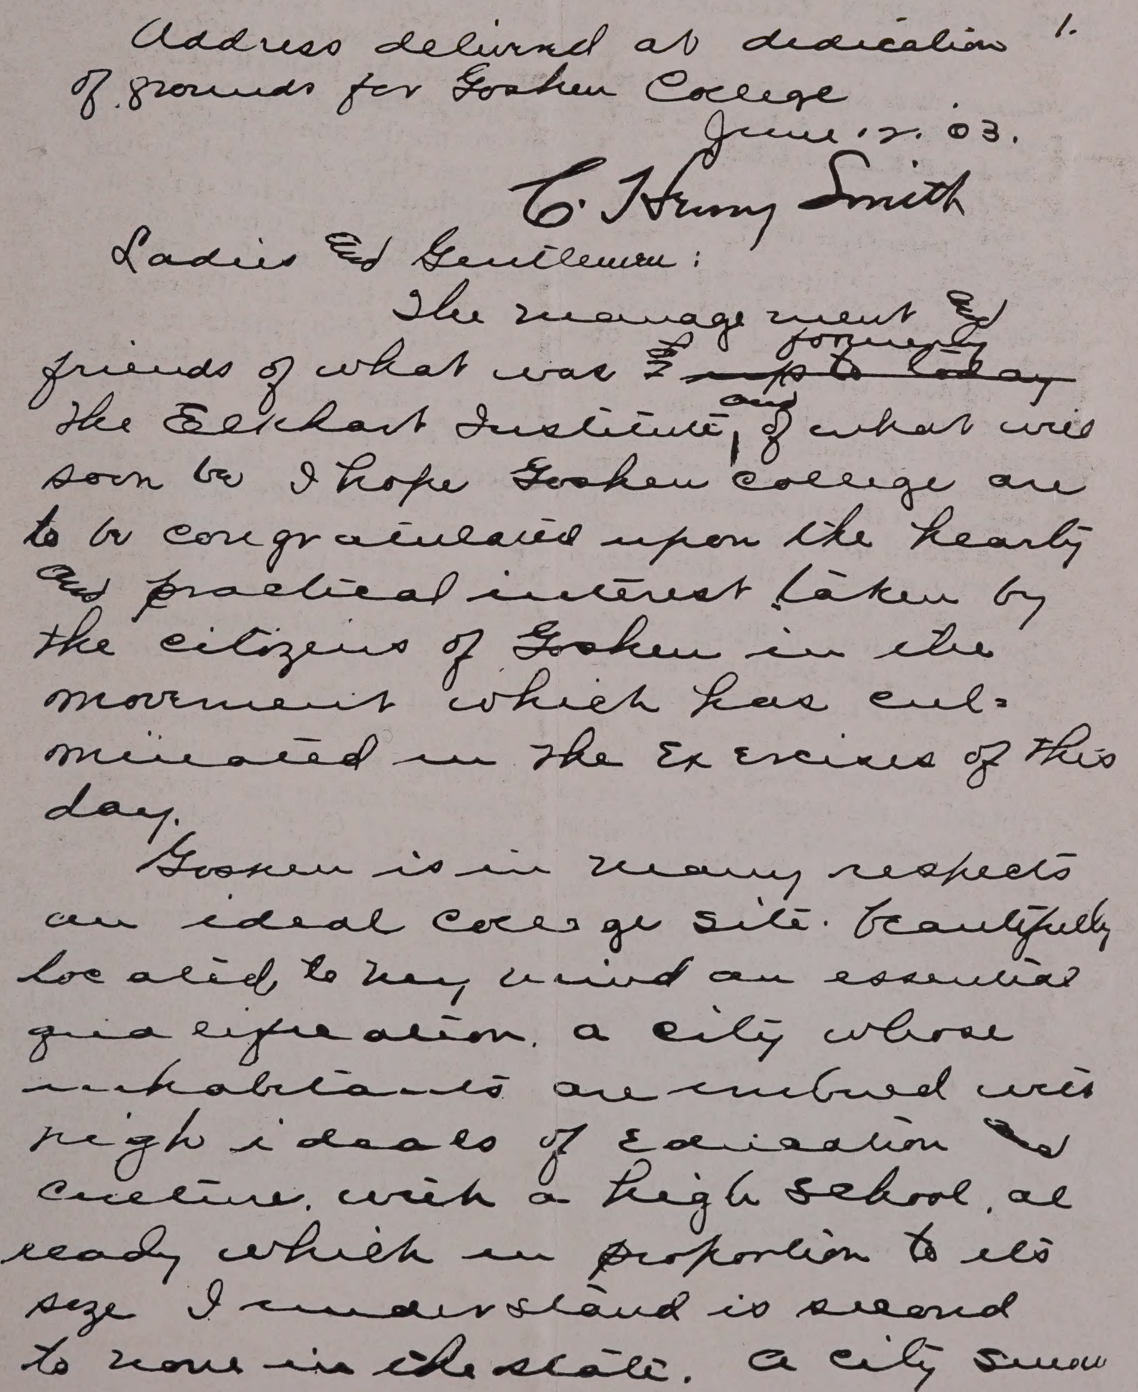
"Fifty Years In Goshen"



Address delivered at dedication 1.
of grounds for Goshen College
June 12. 03.

C. Henry Smith

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The management and friends of what was formerly ~~up to today~~ the Elkhart Institute, and of what will soon be I hope Goshen College are to be congratulated upon the hearty and practical interest taken by the citizens of Goshen in the movement which has culminated in the exercises of this day.

Goshen is in many respects an ideal college site. Beautifully located, to my mind an essential qualification, a city whose inhabitants are imbued with high ideals of education and culture, with a high school, already which in proportion to its size I understand is second to none in the state. A city snow

Appropriate to the Occasion, Ground is Broken

FOR GOSHEN COLLEGE.

The Exercises Were Attended by About 300 People — Addresses by A. Deahl, C. H. Smith, J. H. Blosser, J. S. Hartzler.

[GOSHEN NEWS-TIMES.]

Two special interurban cars brought about 150 students, members of the faculty and officials of the Elkhart Institute and their friends to Goshen, and Goshen citizens and Mennonite residents of the vicinity of this city, who are interested in the movement, swelled the crowd to between 250 and 300, who witnessed the dedicatory exercises of the site of the new Goshen College building on the Shoup land, just south of Parkside, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, June 12th.

A temporary stage had been erected in the center of the site of the proposed first new building at the south end of the campus. Stakes were driven to show the outlines of the structure and the wheat was cut away from this space.

Secretary J. S. Hartzler presided at the exercises. Rev. Dr. H. L. Vannuys delivered the dedicatory prayer. Attorney Anthony Deahl, president of the Commercial Exchange, spoke on behalf of the city, delivering an able address, setting forth the interest Goshen has in location of the school here and the interest felt in the aims and objects of this Mennonite school of higher education, both educational and spiritual.

Prof. C. H. Smith of Chicago University, who will be a member of the faculty next year, responded in behalf of the school, referring to its past and the plans for the future, giving an explanation of the courses and the line of policy. In a few years they hope to have the campus dotted with five substantial buildings and five hundred students in attendance.

President John H. Blosser of New Stark, Ohio, made a short address on behalf of the board of trustees of the school. He gave a sensible and practical talk.

Secretary J. S. Hartzler then made a few remarks, stating that the addresses made showed the hearty co-operation on the part of the citizens of Goshen, the faculty and trustees, and suggesting that all join in singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

The ground was then broken, outlining the new building, Mr. Hartzler holding the plow, and the the team of C. P. Yoder of Elkhart Prairie, who is one of the trustees, drawing the plow.

This building, the first of the group of five, will have 104 feet frontage towards Eighth street and will be 72 feet deep, will be three three stories high, with a basement.

Certainly this was an auspicious day for Goshen and Goshen College.

THE FIRST FIFTY YEARS ARE THE HARDEST!

Goshen College today has an enrollment of 587 students enrolled in three schools: the Liberal Arts College, 538, the Seminary, 73, and the School of Nursing, 73 (including the freshman, pre-nursing students). It has a faculty and staff pay roll of approximately 100 persons. Its student body is recruited from 26 states, 3 Canadian provinces, and 10 foreign countries. It is a college owned and operated by a Board made up of representatives of all the Mennonite Conferences from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Its staff, library, and equipment generally are recognized by the various state and "accrediting" agencies to be adequate; so that Goshen College is today an accredited school whose degrees and transcripts are accepted without penalty by other schools and agencies requiring them.

What is more, all this has been accomplished without compromising our Christian stand. Goshen College has a vital Christian testimony and philosophy of education, published openly in her annual catalogue, apparent in her other publications, and well known in the community. She has shown to the world that it is still possible to be informed and educated and yet to remain thoroughly Christian. Surely for this we should take courage and thank God.

To men like J. S. Coffman and his generation and co-workers, this would seem too good to be true. For Goshen College is a product of a great deal of foresight and effort put forth during the latter part of the last century by men who felt that the machinery of the Church was losing its life. To them the church seemed dead; it was failing to meet the issues of the day and to hold its youth. Perhaps it was something of the spirit of the Moody-Sankey revivals that penetrated into some Mennonite groups. At any rate, in an effort to bring the church up to date and make it effective the German language was abandoned, Sunday schools were organized, Young People's Bible Meetings sprung up, revival meetings were held, interest in missions and in publications began, the first city mission (in Chicago) was opened — and there occurred the beginnings of Goshen College (in the form of Elkhart Institute).

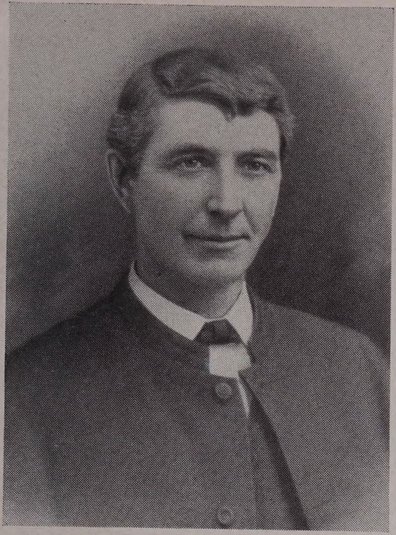
The name of J. S. Coffman looms large in all of this. More than anyone else he was, apparently, the inspirer and promoter of the effort to set up a church school, where Christian youth could work and study together in a Christian environment which would build them into strong Christian characters. Old acquaintances of his still recall his earnest and self-denying yet congenial life, and his prayers for a church school. So when an educational corporation was organized, he was made its first president. serving until his death in 1899. In his address at the opening of the Elkhart Institute Building, he said, "This is but a welling up of a pentup stream that could no longer be suppressed. Disadvantages, opposition, fears of failure. all had to give way before the force that was driven into action by the deep consciousness of duty to God, to the church, to our young people, and to the cause of Christ in general."

By 1903 Elkhart Institute had outgrown its quarters and was seeking a new home. Various sites were considered. It was finally decided to locate in Goshen. So on June 12, 1903, several interurban car loads of folk came to Goshen from Elkhart. These, along with local Mennonite folk and interested citizenry of Goshen met in a small cleared place in a wheatfield on Shoup's farm at the south end of Eighth Street, where a ground breaking ceremony was performed. The program featured such speakers as J. S. Hartzler, the late C. Henry Smith, and John H. Blosser. Attorney Anthony Deahl spoke on behalf of the town, and the Presbyterian minister, H. L. Van Nuys offered prayer. Then J. S. Hartzler guided the plow while C. P. Yoder, a near-by Mennonite farmer, drove the team. and the outline for the first new building was made.

At Goshen the school grew at once from an academy preparing for college entrance into a junior college. In 1908 the complete college course was established. leading to the granting of the B. A. degree, the first of which was granted in 1910. Since that time Goshen has been known primarily as a Christian Liberal Arts College, with a strong program of courses in the humanities, in arts, sciences, and, particularly, in Bible, preparing its students for teaching in public or in parochial schools; for graduate work in the fields of their choice; for professional school, such as medicine; for church and mission work; for life work back in their home communities. Thus Goshen has primarily been a liberal arts college for the training of Mennonite youth.

The campus today consists principally of nine buildings erected as follows: North Hall, 1903; Administration Building, 1903; Kulp Hall, 1906; Science Hall. 1915; Coffman Hall. 1929; Memorial Library. 1940; Heating Plant, 1945; College Union, 1949; Westlawn Residence for Women, 1951. Besides these there are a number of apartment and rooming houses belonging to the college; and two new buildings — a new seminary building and a nursing school building — have been authorized by the Board of Education. For these buildings there is already on hand $185,000, so that we hope to get building underway by fall.

Goshen College was first put under the administration of a church-wide board in 1906, made up of delegates from all the conferences, which (without much change in make-up) still owns and operates the school. Thus came to realization the vision of J. S. Coffman and his colleagues, that of a church-wide school to which the curious and knowledge-hungry youth of the church could go and learn without running the risks of losing their faith in large secular (often anti-religious) universities.



John S. Coffman

About ten years ago under the able administration of President Miller and under the pressures of church demands and a growing enrollment the Goshen College Biblical Seminary was added to the liberal arts college. H. S. Bender, formerly dean of the College, was made dean of the new seminary. About four years ago our new School of Collegiate Nursing was instituted, under the guidance of Orpah Mosemann. Both of these new ventures have prospered and are now seeking more room and facilities. The School of Nursing is already granted temporary accreditment by the state.

To date some 10,000 students have matriculated into Goshen College. That is a large family. Some 200 of these are serving abroad in at least 26 different foreign countries. Many, of course, are still in training, either here or elsewhere. Nearly 100 of them are doctors or are in medical school. Many are home and city missionaries. Hundreds more are teachers in public and in parochial schools. Others are housewives, farmers, shop and office workers, authors, editors, preachers, social workers, Sunday school teachers and superintendents, fathers, or mothers.

It is a tremendous trust God has laid upon us. It is our aim, surely, to rise fully to the demands of that trust, to so teach each life that comes to us that it may indeed be one of service in his or her chosen profession under the good hand and benediction of our God.

This is 1953. Fifty years ago Elkhart Institute moved to Goshen and became Goshen College. This is our fiftieth birthday. It has been a half-century of ups and downs, but through it all we can now see the unerring hand of God preparing and calling out leadership as it was needed. It is indeed a thing to thank God for that we who knew so little about educational organization and administration have been honored by Him over the years to build up an educational bulwark to His honor — a testimony to our own church and to the world that enlightenment and education go hand in hand with Christianity, that ignorance and misinformation (not true knowledge!) are its real foes.

Those of us who are a part of Goshen College today would surely like to say with J. S. Coffman of old: Goshen College today "is but a welling up of a pentup stream that could no longer be suppressed. Disadvantages, opposition, fears of failure, all had to give way before the force that was driven into action by the deep consciousness of duty to God, to the church, to our young people, and to the cause of Christ in general."

Epilogue to a Great Life

With this issue of the News-Letter we have the happy privilege of reviewing for our Alumni family the energetic and victorious life and death of our very dear and helpful friend and brother, the late J. S. Hartzler. For many years, during the (often stormy) vissicitudes of Elkhart Institute and Goshen College he was at the very center of our institutional life — raising money, soliciting students, teaching Bible, or serving on the Board of Education. Teachers, administrators, presidents came and went, but for twenty-three exciting years Brother Hartzler stayed on.

Having taught in the public schools of Noble and LaGrange Counties, Indiana, in the 1880's, and having been ordained a minister in 1881, he began his service at Elkhart Institute in 1895, even before the building there was complete.

He was a member of the first Board of nine trustees of the Elkhart Institute and served as secretary of the Board for ten years beginning in 1896. He was also a member of the Executive Board of seven. When the constitution was revised to provide for twenty-four directors he continued as secretary and a member of the Executive Board, and served in the latter position until 1918.

His first teaching assignments at the Elkhart Institute were German, Bible, history, and geography. During the summer normal term at the Elkhart Institute he taught mathematics and history. In 1899 when the school was organized into departments he became principal of the Bible Department and taught Bible. He also was listed as teacher of geography in the Normal Department. In the "Academic Department", of which Noah Byers was principal, Jonas S. Hartzler taught grammar and geopraphy. In connection with his other duties he also solicited money and students; in fact from the time of the death of J. S. Coffman in 1899 he was the chief solicitor on the faculty and on the Board. In the midst of all these duties, he yet took time out to attend Cook County Normal in 1898 and Wooster University in 1899.

He continued as principal of the Bible Department until the Elkhart Institute was moved to Goshen and after that until the Bible department at Goshen College became the Bible school. Then he was the first dean of the Bible school, teaching church history and Bible, and he continued to serve in that position until 1912, when J. E. Hartzler became dean of the Bible school. Even after that time he continued to teach Bible geography, and in the year 1914-15, after J. E. Hartzler became president, Jonas Hartzler was still teaching

Life of Christ and Bible Geography in the Bible School. And after I. R. Detweiler became dean of the Bible School, he taught Bible geography until the succession of incidents that swept him off the Goshen College faculty and off the Board of Education in 1918, after continuous service in both capacities for 23 years. He never returned to serve Goshen College. But he moved to Elkhart and served there for many years as pastor of the Prairie Street congregation.

An earlier brochure from the college says of him: "Like an expert and sympathetic physician he assisted at the time of the birth of higher education in the Mennonite Church. Then he followed this with a kindly touch of the best nursing techniques in order to keep alive a very weak and ill nourished child."

He had a rugged albeit sympathetic personality, a practical wisdom, a sense of kindly humor, a pioneering instinct, a faith in God, a love of man, and a sense of adventure that seemed to absorb the strings and buffets of life. We Goshenites of a later generation would do well to emulate traits of character so substantial. We owe much to his memory!

"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted,
wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better
Sleep to wake."

Class of 1953 — Some of them!

Actually, according to present prospects there are to be some 200 degrees and certificates to be granted this year, some 180 of which are bone-fide bachelor's degrees.

Following is the breakdown for this year's totals: five secretarial certificates; one certificate of American studies; 19 Associate in Arts degrees; 18 Bachelor of Science in Nursing degrees; 65 Bachelor of Science in Education degrees; 86 Bachelor of Arts degrees; eight Bachelor of Theology degrees; and five Bachelor of Divinity degrees. These figures represent the largest number of graduates from Goshen College in any one year of her history.

This letter is prompted by your article "Some Profound Reflections." As loyal alumni, we are deeply grateful for and keenly interested in our Alma Mater. We shall continue to support Goshen College with our gifts and prayers.

Very sincerely,

GOSHEN COLLEGE ALUMNI IN ENGLAND

Following is an excerpt taken from the Shaftesbury Magazine, published in London by the Shaftesbury Society, and patronized by Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mother:

"A staff composed of five Americans, one Canadian and five Mission workers have formed a united and happy group. The Americans are Miss Kathryn Aschliman from Ohio, U.S.A., Miss Lena Borntrager of Montana, U.S.A., and Mrs. Quintus Leatherman, formerly from Pennsylvania, U.S.A., and her two daughters. The Canadian is Mr. Coffman, who has for some years been associated with the Mission whilst serving the Mennonite cause in London. Miss Aschliman and Miss Borntrager are both members of a group of young people who are doing Summer Social Work in Europe, and Mrs. Leatherman, and her daughters have recently arrived to make their homes in London.

"The children who range from 3 to 12 years of age, and who are invited into four grades in the school, each work upon their own 'Bible Scrapbooks', and when they complete the course of ten three-hour periods they will be allowed to keep their own book. Whilst the aim of the Bible School is first and foremost to teach the children in a novel way the great truths of Christianity as contained in the Bible, the folk at the Mission also believe that here is the 'ideal' way of curing the boredom of the long Summer holidays and of keeping the children from mischief and worse."

It will interest Goshen College to know that Kathryn Aschlimann x52 and John Coffman 33 are members of the alumni family. Mrs. Leatherman is the wife of Quintus Leatherman 27

COMMUNISM COMES TO HOCHWAN

Dorothy McCammon, 44, has joined the host of Goshen College Alumni authors with her new book, "We Tried to Stay". In 208 thrill-packed pages she tells the story of the entry, brief service, and trying exit of 6 American Mennonites into and out of China. One is introduced to the mysteries of the Chinese language, Chinese food, and Chinese religious rituals (including the burning of incense on the head and down into the scalp of young initiates)!

There are the usual travel experiences of going through customs, of adjusting to strange manners, of negotiating impossible roads and bridges in flood time. But there are also chapters on house building (motel style), on establishing a clinic, and on living on Pig Home Street. There are the minor irritations of rats and lice and bed bugs and of preposterous inflation. (The gross expenses for the month of May 1949 totaled $18,785,928,250.00!) And there is the major irritation of the slowly closing-in menace of Communism.

The decision to stay, the gradual but certain pressures of the new government, the estrangement of fearful Chinese friends, finally the arrest and trial of Don! ("Kill him," shouted the mob). Then follow the real test for those who stay behind, and the coming of baby Julia.

Through it all is the undergirding of strong faith in God and the matchless heartening of sympathetic fellow Christians, Chinese, American and others. Anyone who is not moved by the devoted letters of (Chinese) Nurse Julia or the selfless friendship of (American) Missionary Esther, to say nothing of the mutual devotion of the women left behind at Hochwan, is indeed hard at heart!

Here is another scene in the tragic drama of the retreat of the Western Church before the onslaught of Communism. And who can deny that retribution is not long overdue for the opium wars, and the "open doors" and the haughty "colonial policy" of the nineteenth century in China. Unfortunately retribution falls indiscriminately, often upon the just as well as upon the unjust. Yet rarely can one find an account which so well illustrates the tremendous blessing and character-building effects of standing faithful under test of the severest kind. Many values in life can come to one only the hard way.

"We Tried to Stay" is informative and rewarding. It humbles one to see this ruthless and diabolic force moving steadily forward, searching out every nook and cranny of that vast country of China. It inspires one to love and have sympathy for her unfortunate masses. And it drives one to prayer, both for himself, for China, and for the vast unprivileged masses of the earth, for whom life has always been hard, ruthless, and unrelenting.

ADDITIONS TO THE MEDICAL ROSTER OF THE MARCH ISSUE

A number of the Alumni have cooperated in helping us bring up to date the list of medical people who have graduated from Goshen College. We are sorry to have made some mistakes of omission but it seems to happen in the best of regulated families. At any rate the following should be included:

1. Rachel Driver 50, of Greensburg, Kansas, has been admitted to the University of Kansas School of Medicine for the fall of 53.

2. Orie J. Gingerich 48 has a D.D.S. from University of Iowa and is practicing at Kalona, Iowa. His address is Box 93.

3. Paull Herr 48 was granted the D.O. from the Philadephia College of Osteopathy in 52, and did his internship at Lancaster Osteopathic Hospital. He is practicing at Lampeter, Pennsylvania.

4. Raymond Litwiller 31 received the M.D. degree from the University of Chicago and is practicing at Peru, Illinois. His address is 3225 Fifth St.

5. Willis Sutter x51 should receive the D.D.S from Northwestern University this spring. His home address is Hopedale, Illinois.

6. Richard Wenger x45 is an M.D. practicing at the United States Veterans Hospital at Minot, North Dakota.

7. Ora Yoder a02, a revered member of the Alumni family, is an M.D. practicing at Peru, Illinois. His address is 3225 Fifth St.

8. Carl Zehr x51 is at present a medical student at the University of Illinois Medical School. His home address is Foosland, Illinois.

It is not our intention to slight anyone; so if you have an uncle or cousin or brother or friend that has been omitted, do please send us the dope.

HURRAH FOR HARRY

To our knowledge the Harry E. Miller family of 212 S. Eighth Street is about to establish a new record! When their youngest son James gets his B. In addition, three more have taken work here and are on our mailing list.

Following is the complete educational record of that part of the Miller family that has been at Goshen College. If anyone knows of a better record, let's have it.

Surviving are 2 sons, 5 daughters, 6 grandchildren, 1 brother and 3 sisters. During her last week in the hospital all of her sons and daughters were with her. Funeral services were conducted by Russell Krabill, J. C. Wenger, and Paul Mininger on Thursday P.M., March 26, in the College Union Auditorium.

Mrs. Lehman inspired and challenged many in their Christian life and service, and left a radiant testimony. Even on her deathbed she testified to the mercy and faithfulness of Him who was her Lord and Master!

Dear friends,

Here is a small contribution which we would like to have applied to any phase of Goshen College's expenses. We hope we can send more later.

As we have been out of school for several years, we are beginning to realize more fully the tremendous contributions it has made for our lives. We hope that we may be of some help, so that others may enjoy a wholesome Christian atmosphere such as that provided at Goshen. May God bless this institution to the maintenance of pure Christianity and the building of a strong church.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meyer 50 (Jocele Thut 50)

TEACHER PLACEMENT AT GOSHEN COLLEGE

By Dr. Silas Hertzler

Since the very beginning years of Goshen College, and of the Elkhart Institute, the training and education of teachers have been an integral part of the college program. Traditionally and theoretically the college is a liberal arts school, but vocational departments, for many years called "schools," have been an accepted emphasis from the first.

Illustrations were a Normal School, a Bible School, a School of Business, a School of Music, and a School of Oratory, as indicated in the second catalogue issued by Goshen College in May 1905. Previous to this time the various divisions had been called departments.

For many years teacher placement was done incidentally, with no placement officer specified. The college president, the registrar, and later the dean of the college, cared for the correspondence and other details of placement as occasion arose. Recommendation and placement forms were hardly necessary. Informal letters were used to tell employing officials the details required when a candidate for a position was being considered.

With an increased enrollment, and with many more teachers being prepared, this incidental plan became too cumbersome, too slow, too laborious. It also proved inadequate and unsatisfactory from the point of view of trustees, board members, and superintendents. Because colleges did too little in helping graduates find teaching appointments, particularly during the late depression years, commercial teaching placement organizations flourished. These agencies charged as much as 5 per cent of the first year's salary for the help given. Since that time commercial placement charges have increased to as much as 7 per cent of the first year's salary.

Goshen College now has a well organized and carefully planned set of credential forms which the student fills out to aid himself in finding a satisfactory teaching position. These the student prepares for permanent filing in the placement office. They show factual data about the candidate. Included are his age, place of birth, elementary, secondary, and college education, previous work experience in other fields, as well as in teaching. Interests and travel information are followed by a personal autobiography. Personality traits, teaching ambitions, ability to teach and to discipline pupils, then are summarized in probable form by a group of college teachers under whom the student has studied. The estimate of the supervisor of the student teacher in the classroom always is included as the most significant evaluation of all. These forms are typed and are accompanied by a recent photograph. As needed they are then sent to possible employers, to prepare the way for a personal interview.

Placement aid at Goshen College always has been available as a service to students, without cost. So far the student has not been asked even to pay the postage. A full-time secretary is on hand to give information to teachers about possible openings, and to mail credentials as requested.

The following tables represent some interesting facts regarding teacher education at Goshen College for the past five years:

TABLE I

GRADUATES

Year	Elementary	Secondary	Total
1948-49	39	36	75
1949-50	53	42	95
1950-51	55	41	96
1951-52	60	37	97
1952-53	77	18	95

PLACEMENT

Year	Elementary	Secondary	Total
1948-49	62	30	92
1949-50	65	25	90
1950-51	88	21	109
1951-52	88	18	106
1952-53	96	22	118

Table I gives a summary of those graduates qualifying for teachers' licenses for the five-year period from 1948 to 1953. This table has separate columns for elementary and for secondary teachers. The figures indicate a marked increase in the number of people prepared for elmentary teaching, with a slight decrease in the number ready for secondary school appointments, although the total remains but little changed. The great shortage in elementary teachers, with less demand for secondary teachers, is the explanation for this shift. Beginning in 1953 children representing the increased birth rate, beginning during the war years, have reached the sixth and seventh grades; so in the immediate future a larger number of secondary teachers also will be needed.

Table II represents the teacher placement of Goshen College students during the same five-year period. In each year, except one, the number placed has been above the number completing the prescribed courses for teachers. The explanation of this seeming impossibility is that substandard teachers have been given positions when legally qualified teachers were no longer available. For the year 1952-53 this number will be larger than shown in the table, since the statistics for previous years were taken at the end of the summer, and those for this year are as of June 6.

GOOD-BY NOW, '53

This is Wednesday morning. Last night the campus was empty, the dormitories were dark. The laughter (and tears!), the congratulations, the solemn processions, the robes, the pomp and circumstance, the banqueting, the reunions, the "speechifying" and the merrymaking were ended! There were no family groups gathered in clusters under the trees. The cameras had ceased their clicking; the music from the tower was dumb; the year's climax had passed; the gratulations were over. Quiet and darkness and summer heat settled down upon our beloved campus.

Already in the early morning, the exodus had begun. Some got up with the first streaks of dawn for an early start. Loaded with luggage and books, a favorite son or daughter graduate, the trek got under way—to Canada, to Texas, to East or to West. There was still some noisy chatter and clatter, there were the hubbub and wisecracking of departure and the fond farewells of leave-taking. By noon the trek had become a trickle, and with the declining sun of the afternoon it ceased. By night time here at Goshen it was quiet—and dark!

It's tough staying behind when all of you have left! Believe me, I went home too!

But we who stay behind cannot forget! We have had you in classes day after day. We have broken bread together with you on occasion. We have shared together in the chapel hymns. We have shared together a highly important bit of life itself. And in leaving us you have torn a bit of our very lives from us. A bit of flesh, as it were, has been torn from our bones—and we cannot forget!

Our concern shall follow you. May the winds of fortune blow lightly where you walk, and may the sunshine of good will and peace shine with comfort upon your pathway. And when calamity and disaster strike, we shall trust God to temper them to your humanity and to sustain you with faith in Him.

And we shall remember you in the chapel prayer!

AN EXPANDING GOSHEN COLLEGE

Occasionally one hears a deprecatory comment concerning the building program of Goshen College—someone suggesting that it has been going on long enough. Before we pass on any such attitudes, examine with me the alternatives.

First, one might hope that Goshen College should be liquidated and cease to exist. That would be one way to stop her building program. Incidentally, it would save a lot of money.

Secondly, one could hope for a decrease in enrollment and for a general retreat in curricular and extracurricular work. Such a retreat would end the need for expansion and, again, would enable those of us who give to Goshen College to keep that money for ourselves, and to spend it for things we want!

Or, one could hope that Goshen College will remain static—just where it is now, no bigger, no smaller. One could hope that the enrollment will be frozen at the point where it now is, that course offerings will not be enlarged, that other progressive and expansive steps will not be taken—but that we "fix" Goshen College exactly where it now is. Even such a drastic effort at solution to the problem would mean a terrible handicapping and hamstringing of our nursing and seminary programs.

May I humbly suggest to those who find giving painful that—painful as giving to Goshen College is, the alternatives seem even more painful! Who wants to be the graduate of a college that was? Who wants to be known as an alumnus of a fading Alma Mater? Who wants Goshen to be a "has been"?

And what about those who want us to have a building program? What about the many (and there are many!) who rejoice with us in our expansion and who enjoy sharing with us in it! What about the folk who would be very unhappy if we quit improving and expanding at this point? Frankly it is not the supporters of Goshen College who complain about our expansion rogram; it is those who are not supporters. To please our interested constituency, our boosters, we must have one!

"INNOCENTS ABROAD"

On Tuesday, June 9, at 4:30 p.m. the "Arosa Kulm" sailed out of Quebec for London, with nineteen students from Mennonite and affiliated colleges aboard. Professor and Mrs. Willard Smith, of Goshen College, are chaperoning the group, among whom are the following from Goshen: Mary Ann Stemen 53, Marian Brendle 54, Barbara Detweiler 54, Rose Mary Blosser 54, Marian Hostetler 54, Rita Clemens 53, and Gail Miller 53. Hans Hillerbrand 54 also sailed with the group to return to his home in Germany.

High lights of the tour include London and Shakespeare Country in England; Menno Simons Country, the dikes, and the "Alkmaar Cheese Market" in Holland; Brussels, Belgium; the historic sites in Paris and Versailles; Switzerland; Milan, Rome, Naples, and Florence in Italy; Austria, and Germany. Besides, there will be work camp experience for each participant from July 28 to August 22.

On September 3 the now thoroughly Europeanized, travel-worn, and informed sophisticates will step from the "Anna Salem" to good earth at New York, U.S.A.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The day after commencement there was the usual enrollment for summer school at Goshen College. To date 206 students have enrolled in 34 courses, from each of the five division. Course offerings and enrollment in Division V—Teacher Training are naturally large, swelled by the summer demand of teachers for license renewals, or further training and better contracts.

The teaching staff is chosen from the regular faculty—eighteen persons in all—except for Dr. Robert Kreider (Social Science), whom we borrowed from Bluffton for the summer, and William Pletcher (Biology), second year medical student at Northwestern University. John Fisher, from Lansdale, Pennsylvania, is teaching the classes in literature.

Besides the regular summer school curriculum, Leroy Yoder 39, Principal of the Eden Township School, Topeka, taught courses in the first and second (three-week) spring terms; and Mrs. Atlee Beechy (Winifred Nelson 38) taught courses in Home Economics during the second spring term.

GOSHEN COLLEGE DOES IT AGAIN

On May 1, Goshen College, in the person of Tom Diener '55, of Goshen, again took top honors in the State Peace Oratorical contest held, this year, at Taylor University in Upland, Indiana. In the Women's Division Bonnie Brunk '55, also of near Goshen, won second place.

Hans Hillerbrand '53 and Rita Clemens '53 represented Goshen in the extempore speaking contest held at the same time.

Almost from the start Goshen has had a strong forensic tradition. This fact is well illustrated in the fact that Amos W. Geigley '13 is the sponsor of the Peace contest and himself furnishes the prize money of $200, while Roy Umble '35 is the present Director of Forensics at Goshen.

It will do the old timers good (we hope) to know that the resent generation is upholding the forensic tradition at Goshen.

Diener's oration was recorded and entered in the National contest held at Columbus, Ohio, on May 22, where it did not win a prize, but rated honorable mention just next to the prize winners. There are four prizes given; Diener rated fifth from the top!

Congratulations, Tom!

THAT MEDICAL ROSTER AGAIN

1. Earl L. Stover x41, D.D.S., of Aibonito, Puerto Rico, has so far been overlooked in our search for medical students. His dental work was completed at Temple University in 1943.

2. Another addition for our roster is the name of Earl C. Mast x30, M.D., graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University in 1937. Dr. Mast interned at Lenox Hill Hospital, Park Avenue, New York. His present address is 414 Park Avenue West, Mansfield, Ohio.

Concerning the following four, we could get little information, except their present addresses:

1. Richard King x38, M.D., O.S.U.
   38 Fawcett
   Kensington, Maryland.
2. Harry Weiler a08, D.D.S.
   1142-4 N. Gardiner
   Hollywood, California
3. Jacob Rupp 12, M.D.
   106 West Seventh
   Russel, Kansas
4. Mrs. Lydia Hershberger Emery x33, M.D.
   Yoncalla, Oregon

The following is our Alumni roll of deceased doctors:

1. Baumgartner, Ivan 41, M.D.
2. Blosser, C. Roy x04, M.D.
3. Brunk, Lewis P. a15, M.D.
4. Brunk, Walter C. x95, D.D.S.
5. Christophel, W. B. a03, M.D.
6. Coffman, Ansel x95, D.D.S.
7. Esch, Christian D. 20, M.D.
8. Hershey, Charles O. x19, M.D.
9. Hostetler, Menno H. x06, M.D.
10. Jacobs, Wellington K. x04, D.O.
11. Schuler, Arthur x96, D.D.S.
12. Schupert, Lizzie x95, D.O.
13. Slabaugh, Lotus x24, M.D.
14. Summer, Peter D. 06, D.D.S.
15. Welter, Charles H. x03, D.D.S.

According to the data which we have been able to collect, this means that there have been just 150 former and contemporary members of our alumni family who have been admitted to medical, dental, or osteopathic schools—not a bad record!

Phebe Yoder 34, Windom, Kansas, and Elma Hershberger, Christiana, Pennsylvania, have been reappointed by the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities for a third term in the Tanganyika, Africa, field. Goshen College
Goshen, Indiana
Sir:

Our children have been greatly benefited by going to Goshen College and all we have couldn't pay for it. I hope this although only a speck compared to the cost of things there will help some.

Gratefully,
Mr. & Mrs. Ray A. Yoder
(Kathryn Pearl Miller x24)

Also let me say that I am grateful for the kind attention which the Alumni Association pays through the material I have so far received. FROM THE CLASS LETTER OF THE CLASS OF '47

(Greatly delayed!)

Our family, who a few short years ago were all at home, is scattered. Elta, Mrs. Robert Ehret, lives in Hato Rey, Puerto Rico. Robert is a mortician and runs two funeral homes, in Hato Rey and in Aibonito. Mildred, Mrs. Wayne Yoder, lives in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania. Wayne runs a Warren Shoe Store. Mary Phyllis, Mrs. Glenn Troyer, lives near Erie, Pennsylvania. Glenn is a potato grower. Paul is a Medic in the Navy. Since the Marines get their Medics from the Navy, Paul was transferred as a Medic to serve with the First Marines in Korea.

Walter E. Yoder, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana.

Since the last letter, I have been spending the majority of my time doing one thing. Teaching—summer, fall, winter, spring. That may seem to be a bit monotonous to someone who does not teach, but be assured that it is not. One of the reasons it doesn't become dull is that as we teach, we have so many opportunities to learn.

Mary K. Nafziger, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

Currently I am teaching botany at N.C. State College here in Raleigh while doing research toward a doctorate at Duke University. That, together with my new paternal duties, rather limits the time spent in mischief.

Herman Wiebe,
302 Colleton Rd., Raleigh, North Carolina

This year finds me for the second year at the Huron School of Coalinga—Huron Elementary School District. The school has 760 pupils by the last count. Between the Mexican accent (one of my pupils speaks only Spanish) and the southern accent, we have interesting language periods in the room. Many of the children come from homes in the cotton labor camps.

Alice B. Classen,
212 Harrison St., Coalinga, California

June (who joined the Martin family in August of 1950) and I are quite busily engaged in the work of two Evangelical and Reformed congregations constituting the Dallastown E & R Charge here in the heart of York County. I began the pastorate here following graduation from the Theological Seminary in Lancaster. In September I began postgraduate work on a one day per week basis at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Gettysburg.

John Zerbe Martin,
237 W. Main St., Dallastown, Pennsylvania

On July 31 we moved to Shafter from Exeter. Frank has a new job, namely insurance. It is a good feeling to live in a house after spending two years in apartments. Also we enjoy going to the church of our own faith in which we both grew up.

Shafter is a small industrial city about a half hour's drive from Bakersfield.

Laura Schafter Martens,
217 Kern St., Shafter, California

I have been spending my mornings as an orderly in the General Hospital here. Good experience—one learns in dealing with sick persons those things that should be of help in pastoral work.

Soon I shall have to begin working on a camp program for Illinois: one week for those 9-12 and one week for those 13-15.

Bob Keller, 718 Broadway, Sterling, Illinois

Besides keeping house, directing a two-week summer camp, and watching my boy grow, I teach at Cleveland Center School.

This year I have 32 pupils. Perhaps I should say this week. We have what is called "trailer kids" or the trailer element. Two thirds of the children live in trailer camps and one half of those are migratory.

Mrs. Robert Miller, Box 269, Middlebury, Indiana

Summer 1952 saw me flying out to Claremont, California, to attend the biennial General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, at which I was elected to the Corporate Membership of the Board of Home Missions. And at a September meeting in South Bend, I was chosen Moderator of the North Indiana Association of the Indiana Conference of the denomination.

Donald L. Berry,
612 W. Fourth St., Marion, Indiana

We enjoy life on the farm although Clarence is trying to keep it on the basis of "gentleman farming." He is still working at the laboratory during the day and does the farming at night—much to the displeasure of his son who has to be satisfied with an occasional glance at "Dada" on the tractor through the living room window.

Nettie Classen Hooley, North Lawrence, Ohio

We have just moved back to Indiana. In 1950-51 we did graduate work at Oklahoma University. Last year I was superintendent of Berean Academy at Elbing, Kansas. This year we are teaching speech at Bethel College, Mishawaka, Indiana. I am also teaching a course in German and philosophy.

Alvin J. Regier, Mishawaka, Indiana

Elton has been working a greater share of his time at the Elkhart Paint and Wallpaper Store since the first of the year. Marge is secretary, sewing lady, sales girl, carder, and janitor at the Middlebury Woolen Mill, which we have operated in Goshen the past five years.

Elton and Marjorie Gunden,
938 South Eighth, Goshen, Indiana

I've been spending most of the days, including Saturday, helping at the store. However, we've made definite plans to leave this business and then my time will be my own, figuratively speaking, after the middle of February. There is a possibility that I will teach music from 1-12 in our Christian day school, beginning with second semester.

Romaine Stahl Sala, Davidsville, Pennsylvania

Evelyn is able to feed herself with the help of a sling on pulleys. Her arms and legs also get exercise by ropes, pulleys, and weights. In the evenings her rocking bed is turned off for twenty minutes to enable her to read and she thoroughly enjoys this. Twice recently we have been permitted to take her outside on a stretcher for twenty minutes. The process of stretching out the muscles continues, and although it is very painful they are gradually loosening up. We are continuing to have hope and we pray for patience.

Royal, Evelyn, and Stephen Allyn Bauer,
R. 2, Hollsopple, Pennsylvania

At the present time I am in the graduate department of Northern Baptist Seminary here in Chicago. Besides taking a full course of study I am teaching the beginning course in New Testament Greek for the middle quarter. In addition to my Seminary work I am serving as pastor of the oldest mission in the city, when it comes to the "Old Mennonite" Church, namely, Chicago Mennonite Home Mission.

J. Otis Yoder, The Home Mission,
1907 S. Union Ave., Chicago 16, Illinois

At present I am serving full time as pastor for the Albany Mennonite Church, Albany, Oregon. There are a number of Goshen almuni in my congregation and I can certainly speak a good word for every one of them.

Paul E. Yoder,
915 Waverly Drive, Albany, Oregon

For those of you who do not know. I am still teaching at the same school (Scott) in which I began. I think that it will be my last year there, however. My chorus is the largest I have had any year yet. I have 17 girls and 15 boys, which is quite a good group for our school. We are working on our radio programs which are broadcast every three weeks over WSTR, Sturgis, Michigan. Last week's program was sponsored entirely by the music department. Every spring our county has a music festival in which all the schools participate in vocal and instrumental (band and orchestra) numbers.

Mary Ruth Mishler, Shipshewana, Indiana

Ever since the fall of '47 Orval and I have lived on the same farm which we are buying. It is composed of eighty acres. We are improving the rundown conditions of the buildings and soil and hope to someday display a model farm.

Florence (Yordy) Schrock, Ligonier, Indiana

Last April we started our second tour on the Gold Coast. We had a very enjoyable leave in Holland and for three weeks in Switzerland.

We like to live in the Gold Coast. The Africans are striving for self-government and we can really see a progress toward it. Takoradi is a very friendly little town. We have quite a few good friends, among them some Americans.

Dear President Miller:

Enclosed are two checks for fifty dollars each which are to pay our dues to the FIFTY CLUB (you need not send a badge certificate or tin whistles). . . .

We appreciate your good leadership and the fine spirit of the entire organization.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Sprunger

St. Thomas is 85 miles southwest of Kitchener, the midway stop for the New York Central running from Detroit to Buffalo. This is a great railway center with trains running every direction. I am on my fifth year as pastor of Zion United Missionary Church.

We hope to soon have completed our new $75,000 church, which seats about 400, with a junior and a beginners auditorium in the basement and eighteen classrooms.

Paul L. Storms,
21 Weldon Ave., St. Thomas, Ontario

I have quit teaching and am just a homemaker living on a small ranch on the eastern plains of Colorado. Although we can see for miles in all directions we do have a lot of nice trees about the house.

Herbert and I are very happy and are working very hard to build up a larger Sunday-school attendance. This community has only one church and very few children are regular in attendance.

Mrs. Herbert Rixse, (Cleda Holdeman),
Arlington, Colorado

Harold is assistant treasurer of Mennonite Mutual Aid and busy in its different areas of work. His office at 1413 South Eighth Street (known as Eighth Street house by most of you) is at one end of this block and our yellow cottage is at the other.

Lucille Swartzendruber,
1301 S. Eighth St., Goshen, Indiana

It seems that we have had an unusually long furlough, which apparently was unavoidable, for we still are waiting for our visas to India.

While we are waiting we have been asked to take the pastoral work of a mission Sunday school at Parnell, Iowa. There is plenty of work to be done there and one is aware that the work of the kingdom is pretty much the same regardless of which side of the globe one labors.

Luella Gingerich Blosser, Wellman, Iowa

We are enjoying our home life in the quiet, country-like atmosphere of Waterford—just far enough away from Highway 15 and all its traffic and noise. John Lowell, two years old, and Judy Elaine, 9 months, make all the noise we need when they aren't asleep.

Lester & Erma Zimmerman, R. 5, Goshen, Indiana

We continue to farm wheat in this high and very dry country.

R. L. Showalter,
317 S. Birch, Perryton, Texas

Dave is enjoying his work as salesman for John E. Landis Co., selling automotive parts to dealers and independent garages throughout the county. Every Monday night he directs a men's chorus, and at the present time he is directing a mixed chorus for our church's Christmas program. With these activities, quartet practice, prayer meeting, and other activities our weeks are well filled.

After having taught in the public school for five years, I finally gave up teaching for the full-time job of housewife which I find very pleasant. Teaching a Sunday-school class of junior boys and girls keeps me in the swing of teaching, lest I should forget.

David and Mary Landis,
148 Front St., Lititz, Pennsylvania

I am again teaching school this year at Boardman where we have close to 2,000 in our building and about 2,600 in the system.

Christine Blosser Huffman,
Blosser Rd., North Lima, Ohio

A little less than two years ago we moved into our new home overlooking the Grand River Valley which some of you know as significant in the history of early Mennonite settlements in Ontario. We like the view and the good country feel of the place, although it will probably eventually be built up even though we are well out of town now.

Howard is still teaching part time at Rockway Mennonite School.

Howard and Polly Good,
R. 1, Preston, Ontario, Canada

Since our last letter our home has been blessed with a third daughter. We still live on Main Street near the college; so drop in to see us when you get to Goshen.

J. Howard Kauffman,
Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

This is my sixth year of teaching in Elkhart. We had lots of fun on our fishing excursions the past summer. The two older boys, Lon Michel, 4 years, and Don Mitchell, 2½ years, seemed to enjoy fishing with us.

The Burnett A. Martins, R. 4, Elkhart, Indiana

Of the sixteen children this year enrolled, seven are from our own mission families and the others come from gold mining and government families. I have a little Norwegian boy in first grade, a boy from a South African home where a Dutch language of some type is spoken, a Polish boy, a Swedish boy, two British children, and two Italian children. The Italian children are picking up English quite rapidly. The South African boy is understanding more all along, too. The others know English very well and I am surely thankful.

Ruth Bauman,
Mara Hills School, Tarime, Tanganyika

My wife and I are still in Kitchener, serving at the First Mennonite Church with C. F. Derstine. We have, in addition to our church work, two little kiddies to take care of; Mary Lou is now three and John Orley not yet one. Each year finds us more in love with our work and those we are serving.

First Mennonite Church is a growing church. The membership is now 557. In the few years that I have been here I have witnessed the reception of more than 150 folks.

John H. Hess, Kitchener, Ontario, Canada

Work with the Board has been in the area of business administration and particularly as treasurer and financial agent. We appreciate this privilege of working in the mission work of the church.

At the present time the Bennett family is living at 151 W. Lusher. We now number four with two children, ages ten and three.

H. Ernest Bennett, Elkhart, Indiana

Art is still attending the University of Illinois, teaching part time this year as an instructor on the senior faculty, and completing his work toward his Ph.D. in biochemistry. However, we hope to complete our schoolwork this coming August.

Oma Hershberger Smucker,
K-29 Stadium Terrace, Champaign, Illinois

This is my second year as Superintendent of Schools of St. Paris, Ohio. There are 455 pupils enrolled in the entire school.

Our family numbers four—Douglas (5 years old), Jacqueline (2 years old), Jean Ann, and myself.

Dennis D. Miller, St. Paris, Ohio

This Christmas finds us "deep in the heart" of Florida in our nineteenth month of work with migrants—work which we are enjoying. Working with us in the two migrant camps (2,000 capacity population) are five to ten young people working under Voluntary Service of the Church of the Brethren.

This Christmas is particularly rich because around our hearth are three instead of two this year. Our Anita Rose is seven months old.

Ruth (Warstler) Griggs, Brethren Service Unit,
P.O. Box 538, Chosen, Florida

The most important event in our family since the last letter was the arrival of Philip Jay, September 21, 1951. He's a big, rough and tumble boy now.

Denton has been busy serving as cochairman of the Christ for Greater Johnstown Committee, a small group of ministers and laymen who are interested in revival, and who sponsored T. W. Wilson, a close associate of Billy Graham, in a campaign here in October.

Mary (Schnell) Croyle,
171 Watson St., Johnstown, Pennsylvania

Carpenter work has kept me quite busy this past year—have built a little for speculation but mostly homes for specific individuals.

My spare time is taken up with my 2½-year-old boy who wants to know everything and helps me do everything.

Clarence R. Burck,
R. 1, Box 167, Monmouth, Oregon

Besides caring for Carol, my afternoons are free to write and do translating work. This has been a joy to me—giving our Spanish people some of the good things we have here in English. I was surprised to find so many good Gospel tracts—good and attractive, too—from Herald Press. To date, about ten of them have been put into Spanish. In the future, I hope some books can be got ready for printing by our Spanish Department at Scottdale.

Marie Yoder, R. 5, Box 90, Goshen, Indiana

This finds me at Herald Press, very happily absorbed in the book program. I am Assistant Book Editor as well as doing the design and layout for books. It's fun to watch books grow from the embryonic stage in the author's thinking until they finally reach the hands of the public through sales.

Am happily absorbed in another project right now, too. And that is planning a wedding for early '53 with one of our recent authors—John A. Hostetler.

Beulah Stauffer, Mennonite Publishing House,
Scottdale, Pennsylvania

We returned to the States for a vacation September 20 and will sail back to France January 5 for two more years of MCC services which will be counted by my draft board as I-W alternative service. The 3½ years already served could not be counted.

The work will be in the two MCC children's homes in France, both of which are running with the help of the French Mennonites and will be taken over by them, God willing.

John H. & Anny Yoder, Wooster, Ohio

Mary Ann and I sailed from San Francisco on an A.P.L. freighter and reached Yokahama November 6. There was a raft of Goshen College alumni on the pier to meet us—Rebers, Kanagys, Kreiders, and Carl Beck. The Rebers took us along home that night and we've been occupying two rooms of their charming Japanese-style home ever since.

Ruth M. Bean,
Nogata-Cho, Nakano-Ku, Tokyo, Japan

John is enjoying teaching sixth grade plus art to all eight grades at Franklin School in Kent. I have done some substitute teaching in the county and am tutoring two children in reading until Christmas. Our church work keeps us busy too but we enjoy it.

Flora Jean (Hostetler) Martin, Hudson, Ohio

Now we are in charge of the Share station, with a good-sized church (attendance—200), day school of six grades and three teachers (African), dispensary in charge of another missionary, and five village churches for which I am responsible.

Wayne H. Brenneman,
Share, via Jebba, Nigeria, West Africa

I am still holding out in the fight against ignorance here at Middlebury High School. My responsibility is to instruct in matters of mathematics and science.

D. Diener, Middlebury, Indiana

America has been home to us for almost three years. Surrounded by green and endless pampas, it is a very typical Argentine country town of 6,000 people—quiet (except for the big Saturday and Sunday night outdoor dances), friendly, self-satisfied, religiously indifferent.

Our year in Colombia, prior to our coming here, certainly served to heighten our sense of the need of the Gospel witness in Latin America.

Eunice Litwiller Miller,
Sarmiento 380, America, FNS, Argentina

Presently I am teaching the four upper grades in a two-room elementary school near Berlin, Ohio. I enjoy teaching reading and history far more than I ever did science. I have channeled my interest in science to the field of television and the study of the technical aspects of how high frequency radio waves are propagated.

John L. Maxwell, Benton, Ohio

I thoroughly enjoy working with secretarial students here at G.C. and find it very challenging.

Irene Hershberger, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

We have been living at Louisville, Ohio, for a little over two years now. I am assistant pastor in the Beech Church and we enjoy the work a great deal. I am often encouraged by the consecration of many of the youth throughout the church.

Ray Bair, Louisville, Ohio

Most important news item concerning myself is that I shall marry Ronald Rich in June. If you are in Goshen at that time, please come to our wedding. Ronald is completing doctoral work in chemistry at the University of Chicago this year. I met him on our student tour the summer of '47.

Elaine Sommers, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

John Lee, my husband, comes from Buhler, Kansas. We met in voluntary service at Gulfport, Mississippi.

On August 12 of this year we had a big addition to our family—twin boys! James Ray and John Jay are their official names, but we know them better as Jimmy and Johnny.

Beulah Schrock Buhler, Millersburg, Indiana

I live at Fliederhof with Edith Herr and Elaine and am teaching nursing students in the School of Nursing, which involves commuting to the Elkhart Hospital for classes and supervision several days of the week.

Living at Fliederhof is a rich experience. We try to entertain student groups frequently, although we do not maintain quite the same "open house" this place always was when Alta Schrock lived here.

Mable V. Brunk, Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana

September 7 of this current year marked the second year of our residence here in the Suppes Memorial Home at Glendale. This is a beautiful place where our associates are fellow missionaries and thus we all have the same bent or inclinations, generally, in a spiritual way.

Calvin F. Snyder,

EXCERPTS FROM THE CLASS LETTER OF THE CLASS OF 1936

Mr. Ulrich, president and owner of the firm with which I have been associated since 1949, took his brother John J., the sales manager, and myself on a trip to Puerto Rico the week preceding election. It was a relief to be somewhat removed from the political mudslinging going on at the time.

This last summer we loaded our Ford with the family, Janice 12, Jon David 11, James 5, and Jay Edward 1, and visited my first home, Cass County, Missouri, and points west including Colorado Springs, Denver, and the Rockies. We only regret that the scenic wonders, the retreats and the invigorating atmosphere are so far away.

John D. Hartzler
Eureka, Illinois

I am still teaching school—a rural school of 20 pupils about 3 miles from home. One of my pupils is Lowell, our oldest boy who is almost 8. Elaine will be 5 soon and will start to school next year. Then there is Galen about 1½ years old, who is all boy.

We live on a farm we bought in 1950.

Glen Guengerich
Route 1
Wellman, Iowa

As to personal affairs, Christine and I still live at 1110 South Main with our three boys, Ronny 11, Jerry 9, and Kenny 6. Ronny plays the cello in a grade school string quartet; Jerry is studying violin. The boys have a paper route on Fifth and Main Streets and one of their favorite customers is Mrs. Slate whom all of you remember as one of our loyal class members.

Karl Massanari
Goshen College

I still have my pastorate out at McKinley, with services and Sunday School every Sunday and Sunday evening services every first and third Sunday evening. Our crowd isn't large and sometimes it seems to be slow but we must have patience. The Lord has been and still is good to us and we are happy to be in His service.

Lowell Troyer

In early February my sister, Mary, and I attended the meeting of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches in Cincinnati. The sessions were extremely interesting and helpful. We particularly enjoyed the talks and panels on curriculum building in the U.S., Japan, the Philippines, Spanish-American countries, Africa, and India.

Our own graded Sunday school series is gradually taking form. The work of this past year has been most exciting and exacting. We have permission to produce our own four-color art illustrations. Norma Hostetler is living with me at Orrville while I write and she illustrates. We have spent much time planning suitable subjects and techniques for nursery illustrations. Although this is delaying publication of the nursery course longer than if we had used pictures already available, we are deeply grateful for the privilege of producing pictures planned specifically for nursery children. We visited lithographers in Cleveland, Chicago, and Baltimore and have developed satisfactory methods of producing art copy for photographic reproduction of children's books and for hand-separation plates for activity sheets in color (less expensive). We desire your prayer support in these tasks, and in the translation-projects of Sunday School and Summer Bible School books which are underway for Germany, France, South America, India, and Japan.

Katherine Royer
Orrville, Ohio

You may know that Julia, my granddaughter, was in Salzburg, Austria, studying music at the Mozarteum for about a year and a half. Last July her parents went to join her in Europe and to bring her back after a tour through Austria and Italy. I have often said that when my daughter is away I feel like an orphan. Then, when my sister, who has been living with me since her husband died in May, 1951, went back to Petoskey, Michigan, for a visit in her former home town, I did feel alone, indeed. . . .

I have continued on the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army and enjoy that contact—an opportunity for doing good. Also, I have begun my fifteenth year as president of Western Rubber Co. In 1952 we celebrated our fiftieth anniversary. Had two special dinners—one at Tippecanoe Country Club for those who had completed 25 years of service with our company. As our General Manager, W. T. Stalter, was one of those, I presented the wrist watches which are given on such occasions. The second dinner was for all our employees and their families—at the armory in the Fairgrounds. We also got out a brochure which tells the story of Western Rubber Co. in picture and story. As I had nothing to do with the planning or execution of this brochure, I may say it was very well done.

On February 1, 1952, Milton became vice president of Lake Forest College. It is a Presbyterian college with an average enrollment of 800. His specific work is in the field of Public Relations. . . .

The boys knew only Springfield schools, so going to a new school in the middle of their freshman and junior years was not easy for them. One year from that time and they are completely adjusted. Don will graduate in June. He will be eighteen in July. His interest is engineering and he has applied for a scholarship at several schools in the east which have the 3-2 plan with MIT. Jon is a sophomore and he has several interests but none definite. He is talking of going to Goshen College.

Our children have to go down town for their school. We rather dreaded to see them make the trip on the crowded trains, but they seem to enjoy it, and Alan can rattle off all the names of the stations in the best manner of the Japanese train announcer. Alan is in the sixth grade and is president of the student council for the six elementary grades. Rebecca is in the second grade. There are a total of about 450 pupils in the school representing 27 nationalities, although two-thirds of the total number are American. Stephen is four but as such is eligible to attend the Japanese Kindergarten near our home. There he is the only foreigner among about 80 Japanese children. He takes his lunch box filled with rice and meat and eats it with chopsticks in the approved fashion.

Planning an educational program for a university in the new Japan is my task. It presents a never-ending challenge. Please pray for us in our work.

Students are very curious about a foreigner's house and food so we have made a special effort to entertain them in groups each week. Through the experience I have discovered that they are very fond of most Western foods. But they don't like either cabbage or carrots or cheese. Milk and coffee are regarded as luxuries for wealthy students. We are always amazed at their ability to adjust to our customs of eating at a high table with knives, forks, and spoons. They admit that chopsticks are much easier (for them!) to handle; but they refuse them at our table because they want the experience to be completely Western. Sometimes they come back later. One group came on a Saturday afternoon to listen to records and another came to borrow a Bible in order to read Job in a different translation. One boy read the entire Bible and wrote his reaction to each book.

President E. E. Miller
Goshen College
Goshen, Indiana
Dear President Miller:

Enclosed lease find a check for $150.00 which should finish paying for the Grant-in-aids which I received at G.C. during my Junior and Senior years. This does not cover interest money and perhaps you would let me give that as donations from time to time for varying projects at G.C.?

Howard and I greatly appreciate what G.C. has meant to us and we are happy to see it continue in an even larger way than in our college days. We are looking forward to having Howard's sister, Velma a freshman at G.C. next term. Thus our interests will again be more closely connected to G.C.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blosser 39

CONGRATULATIONS, MRS. BINGAMAN 96!

Mrs. Elizabeth Gingerich Jacobs '96, Instructor in Typewriting and Shorthand at Elkhart Institute 1897-1901, with her brother Norman Gingerich, who had charge of the Commercial Department. The picture was taken in Elkhart, in April, 1899.

To our knowledge the first and therefore the oldest person to receive a diploma from Goshen College (Elkhart Institute) is Mrs. Elizabeth Gingerich Jacobs Bingaman of Kitchener, Ontario, Canada. "Although I had no graduation gown," she writes, "no class exercises, no baccalaureate sermon, no music, no congratulations from the crowd (yet!), I was very pleased to hold that 14 by 16 diploma in my hand . . . . issued for me personally, and signed by my teacher T. P. Lehman and Dr. H. A. Mumaw."

During her year in school at Elkhart Mrs. Bingaman earned her board and room "by cooking for a students' club under the supervision of J. B. Smith. He bought the groceries! About eight men boarded there. Rosetta Hoover, a student also, from Cayuga, Ontario, shared the work with me. It worked out fine for two months—then J. B. Smith suddenly took a notion to go to Ada, Ohio, to attend the University there. (I believe Sylvanus Yoder went with him to Ada to school.) I was left without a place to eat and sleep. I had no money left after paying my $30 tuition: just $5 left to be exact. Then G. L. Bender (Harold's father) was the good Samaritan who found me a place to work."

Reminiscing further, she recalls how that J. S. Coffman had come to Canada in 1892 reviving an "almost dead church" and promoting interest in the proposed school for Mennonite youth. Her father (the late J. S. Gingerich), she maintains, gave the first donation ($25.00) from Canada. "I'm in favor of a Mennonite School," he said! Later her brother Enoch matched this donation, and received a certificate signed by Brother Coffman, which he still holds. Later Brother Coffman lived to see his dream come to fulfillment. In February 1896, when he gave the dedicatory address for the new Elkhart Institute Building on "The Spirit of Progress," Mrs. Bingaman typed the manuscript for him. "I'll never forget that night of nights," she maintains. "I never saw a happier man!"

After her graduation, Mrs. Bingaman worked for some time as a stenographer at the office of J. F. Funk and A. B. Kolb at the Mennonite Publishing Company in Elkhart—until she was asked by Brother Coffman to take charge of the Stenographic Department at the Institute. In 1899 she was married to Wellington Jacobs, who also served on the Institute faculty, first in the Commercial Department, and later in Music. He and Mrs. Jacobs came to Goshen with the institution in 1903, and in January 1904, at the dedication of the new Administration Building, Professor Jacobs directed the large chorus of mixed voices in singing the Hallelujah Chorus. The next year he was director of the newly formed "Philharmonic Society," which rendered "The Messiah" for the first time in Goshen, Indiana!

In those early days, reminisces Mrs. Bingaman, the combined salary for me and my husband was $15 a week.

The Jacobs left Goshen in 1909, but the trail was blazed by this first graduate—at least for the J. S. Gingerich family. Brothers and sisters followed in her trail. In 1897 Delman and Nancy followed their sister to Elkhart. Later came Norman, Samuel, and Barbara, the youngest. Then came the nieces and nephews—Ida, Cora x33, and Charles Boyer x33, followed by John wbs39, and Arnold and Mary Gingerich x34 (Mrs. Austin). And now comes the third generation: David 52 and Mary Groh 53. "David and Mary are the grandchildren of this same brother Enoch who gave those twenty-five Canadian dollars to J. S. Coffman . . . to help build a Mennonite School"!

Thank you, Mrs. Bingaman. We, of a later and softer generation, owe much to our trailblazing forerunners.

GOSHEN COLLEGE INTRAMURAL ATHLETIC PROGRAM

By Roman Gingerich

An intramural program worthy of respect has been the goal at Goshen College for the last 50 years. We consider the present program of athletics above par, but there are still areas of activity that need improvement. During this time the faculty has tried to provide a program of activities which meets the needs of all students. The days of considering athletics a necessary evil are gone for good. An interested faculty and a sympathetic administration have provided an adequate budget and blocks of time for athletics and recreation. The intramural program has developed along with other areas of extracurricular activity on our campus.

During these years of development many faculty members have contributed time and effort to organize and promote a program with sound objectives. For many years Dr. Glen Miller and Dr. Olive Wyse have been members of the faculty athletic committee which makes athletic policy and gives direction to the program. Their counsel and experience have been valuable to the present men's and women's directors.

The intramural program today is built around the following objectives:

1. To aid students to develop a Christian philosophy of recreation and physical education.

2. To encourage each student to recreate mentally, spiritually, and physically.

3. To provide a variety of activities and facilities so that the needs and interests of each student may be met in the most constructive way.

4. To provide excellent instruction so that students can learn new skills and improve in performance of previously learned skills.

5. To guide students to accept wholesome health habits.

6. To stimulate the acceptance of positive character traits.

7. To provide the atmosphere which encourages the forming of new friendships.

8. To provide experiences and counsel to enable students to develop leadership qualities which they can use in their communities and in the church at large.

These objectives are not only sought for the experienced player, but for all students who wish to play. The number of teams and pairings are determined by those who sign for each activity and regulations are drawn up to provide activity for each person. The number of players on each squad has been reduced to minimum (basketball—6 to 8 men, 7 to 9 women; baseball—11 men) so that each player has an opportunity to break into the game. Even substitutes are encouraged to coach on the base lines or to play a position on either offense or defense in flog football. A swish through the basket or a hit with the bases loaded is as much of a thrill for the novice as for the skilled player.

In both the men's and women's departments provisions are made for the pairing of teams and individuals of somewhat equal ability. During the basketball season one finds teams playing in three separate leagues. In minor sports, such as ping-pong and horseshoe, the skilled performers are strategically placed in opposite brackets so that they do not play each other until late in the tournament. Teams are organized on a class (Senior-Junior-Sophomore-Frosh) basis for competition. Class athletic committees appraise performance and help the athletic directors organize each sport in season. Class spirit has been a factor in the promotion of a successful program. Student volunteers and student assistants officiate for most of the activities. The high regard for each other's ability and integrity has been gratifying to the directors. Occasionally a rebuke during an exciting moment of the game is corrected by an apology in the recesses of the locker room. This volunteer assistance from the students is an important cog in the intramural operations.

Another key to a successful intramural program on the college level can be found in the physical maturity of college students. The college freshman is capable of competing against the college senior. In high school physical maturity is a factor which hinders the intramural program in the smaller schools where all grades compete. The better programs are found in the larger schools where consideration is given for competition in the upper and lower levels.

The required physical education classes should be considered a vital part of a successful program. It is in these classes where skills are taught before the sports season is inaugurated. Many students come to Goshen College without experience in the fundamental skills of the sports and activities in our program. A general observation might be that the Pennsylvanian's interest in baseball and the Hoosier's one-handed basketball shot is not shared by his Canadian cousin, but the Canadian cousin out-skates all his cousins from the States. This dictates a wide variety of activities for our cosmopolitan student body which has a wide variety of interests. It is remarkable how much innate ability is discovered to the gratification of both student and instructor.

The completion of the Union Auditorium-Gymnasium inaugurated a new era for intramural athletics at Goshen College. The excellent showers and locker rooms along with towel service have brought our health practices above accepted standards. Additional indoor facilities have increased participation by students, faculty, and community.

During the second year of use, 1951-52, the Union gymnasiums were the scene of 325 organized basketball games for college men and women and church league teams, composed of 145 young men from Northern Indiana Mennonite churches. The gymnasium includes two regulation basketball courts which can be used at the same time. During the latter part of the indoor season between 90 and 100 volleyball games were played on 3 courts in less than 4 weeks.

Total participation for the school year 1951-52 is listed as follows:

Men's Program

Fall	teams	participants
Softball	8	86
Football	5	67
Horseshoe tournament		26
Winter
Basketball	18	126
Volleyball	14	104

Badminton tournament		49
Tumbling team		16
Shuffleboard tournament		42

Baseball	6	67
Track	2 meets	52

Archery tournament		10

Women's Program—1951-52

One hundred and fifty-nine women participated in the intramural program. This represents 61 per cent of the women enrolled in college.

Fall	teams	participants
Softball	8	85
Field hockey	4	50
Winter
Basketball	12	119
Volleyball	10	93
Badminton tournament		39
Shuffleboard tournament		18
Table tennis tournament		44
Spring
Track & Field meet		23
Tennis tournament		11

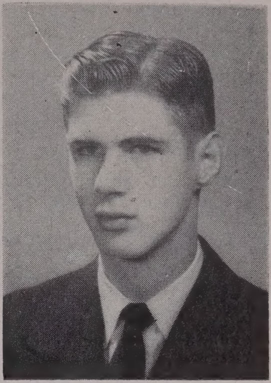
Two new hard surface tennis courts have increased the interest in tennis.

For the skilled basketball players we have organized a varsity team, composed of the 14 players from the intramural teams. This team plays 8 to 10 games with Alumni, local, and Mennonite church teams from Illinois. This has given the better players an opportunity to play together.

None of our men or women have made the headlines as All-American athletes, but they have been playing every week of the school year. Letter and sweater awards are given on the basis of a cumulative point system. This means that to receive recognition one must participate in a variety of activities and excel in some. One of our better basketball players casually dropped the remark one day that he played more basketball in the Goshen College intramural program than he did as a regular on his high-school team.

Good and adequate equipment is a must in a successful intramural program. Too often the intramural program receives the used equipment discarded by the interschool teams or the budget is inadequate to replace worn-out equipment. Good equipment adds to the morale of the players. Naturally, an occasional new ball is saved for an important game, but as a general rule equipment is shared whether one plays in the "A" or "B" league.

A more developmental and satisfying intramural atthletic experience for each student remains as a challenge for the faculty athletic committee, the men's and women's directors and their student advisory groups.



Albert Meyer

TWO MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY ARE HIGHLY HONORED!

Albert Meyer 50, who is finishing the laboratory work for his doctorate in physics at Princeton University, was the first to be selected from 178 applicants for a Charles Foster Kent Fellowship. This foundation has its office headquarters at Yale, and its purpose is the encouragement of religion in higher education. In addition he won the Princeton exchange fellowship for Basel, Switzerland. According to the best information the NEWS-LETTER could get, he intends to use both fellowships and spend the year in study at Basel. Congratulations, Albert! The Goshen College family hereby wishes you Godspeed and success in your endeavors!

Besides these honors, Mr. Meyer was also offered a Fulbright for study at Bristol University in England! (Too bad he isn't ubiquitous—apologies to dear old "Daddy" Lehman!)

Recently Dr. John A. Hostetler 49 has also sailed for Europe under a Fulbright assignment. Accompanied by Mrs. Hostetler, John will spend the first three weeks in orientation at Bonn, Germany. From here he will proceed to Heidelberg, where he will spend a month organizing and setting up his program of study under the direction of the University there. The Hostetlers then plan to spend their time living alternately in various German Mennonite communities in the Palatinate and thus familiarizing themselves with European Mennonite life at the grass roots, and returning to Heidelberg to reflect on and register their impressions. The title of his study, as approved by the committee on Government Grants under the Fulbright Act is: "A Study of Mennonite Community Life in the Palatinate: Agriculture, family life, community life, and religious life."

Dr. Hostetler's doctoral study, done at Penn State, was in the field of sociology, in the area of Mennonite church life.

Dr. John A. Hostetler

We hope that list of donors is not too full of errors. If we missed fire on a few, please forgive us. We do appreciate your continued interest and support. Incidentally, you might be interested in the following paragraph from an address given last spring at the Eighth National Conference on Higher Education, at Chicago, by Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation:

"There has been a heartening increase in alumni giving all over the country; annual giving of modest amounts by individual alumni is providing a most useful flow of new income into our colleges and universities. I am not convinced, however, that this source of income has begun to meet its full responsibility. Since I, personally, am still in the large class of sinners in this respect, I shall speak frankly. It is one thing to say that we should not bar the doors to higher education by charging student fees beyond the reach of our young men and that the young graduate should not embark upon his hazardous future encumbered by a large load of debt. It is quite another thing to say that a graduate who has moved on to substantial earnings in the professions, business, or elsewhere is entitled to ignore the actual cost of the education which contributed so vitally to his opportunity and earnings. It seems reasonable that an alumnus should be aware of the difference between the actual cost of his education and what he himself paid for it and that he should consider it an obligation to pay that difference to his college or university in so far as a conscientious application to himself of a means test would suggest. In any event, the prosperous alumnus should not permit himself a warm glow of personal philanthropy for his $10 to the alumni fund until after he has come to terms with the actual costs of his education. Many alumni are not in position to pay these costs, but many are, and might respond affirmatively to better information about the financing of their own education. There are significant amounts hidden away in this reservoir of moral obligation which might be tapped by skillful exploration."

Thank you and God bless you everyone! And do keep up the good work!

ECHOES FROM MINNESOTA

I am writing this editorial at the Continuation Center at the University of Minnesota, where I was sent by Goshen College to be a participant in the North Central Association Workshop, under the direction of Dr. Lee Furrow of Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois. Here my lot has been cast in with representatives from some forty other liberal arts colleges, all the way from West Virginia to New Mexico. It is interesting to compare notes.

First of all, whether it is sheer pride or pigheadedness, may I say that I am not ashamed of Goshen College. From what I see and hear, and from the catalogues I study of other institutions, I believe that our standards do not make a bad appearance when compared with those of others. But may I add quickly, we must not feel that we have arrived. While I do feel gratified at what I think is no mean achievement in comparison with other schools in our bracket, yet one cannot be in this environment without feeling and seeing very great gaps and weaknesses which we do need to work at continuously. On the whole, I have the impression that the liberal arts colleges are none of them in too secure a situation. They are still a force to be reckoned with, and a strong one, but they all have great problems and a struggle ahead. In the face of competition from the massive universities, with their boundless resources and funds and reputations, one cannot help feeling at times that the liberal arts colleges are a rather weak and forlorn lot.

One big advantage which our alma mater has is her strong church orientation. While most of the colleges represented here are church related in some fashion or other, many of their representatives will tell you that the church connection is quite nominal, and that the institution is largely independent. This may or may not be a good thing. While some colleges have become independent and yet have retained their unique Christian emphasis, yet for most of them it seems that as they lose their church orientation they become secularized—and thus lose at least one very important reason for their unique existence. For when a liberal arts college tries to do only what the universities are doing, then it is competing in an area where it has every disadvantage, and is likely to go down in the competition. It is only as the liberal arts college occupies a unique position and performs a unique function that it can hope to have a distinct bill of goods to sell to its customers, and thereby fulfill its reason for being. The unique features of liberal arts colleges may be many, but surely a church-centered program and a Christian classroom and extracurricular atmosphere is no small item of distinction.

Goshen College has such a program and emphasis; it is only right and good for her to have such a program, but it is a very distinct asset—an asset which some of my colleagues here at Minnesota actually seem to covet. It gives us a constituency, and it furnishes a rallying point around which the College family musters to her support.

Yet my experience here also makes me highly ambitious for my alma mater. I am greatly challenged to push on in improved scholarship and better teaching. I do wish that we were not so hampered by lack of room and equipment and finances. While problems are the very stuff of life and one should be challenged by them to do his best, yet too many problems carried by too few concerned individuals can be killing! Whatever of competence and reputation Goshen has achieved as a sound liberal arts college has been achieved in spite of and not because of adequate resources. Is it too much to hope that with the vastly increased size of the graduating classes since 1947 and the consequent greatly increased number of our devoted alumni, our needs will be increasingly met?

FACULTY CHANGES FOR THE NEW SCHOOL YEAR

The school year opens with eleven new faculty members, plus an additional one to join us for the second semester. These people come to us with sound preparation, and should add greatly to the quality of teaching for which Goshen stands.

Dale Swartzendruber, M.S. (Ph.D. Cand.), comes to supply the growing demand for more work in agriculture. Both his undergraduate and his graduate work were taken at Iowa State College, where he specialized in agronomy.

Arthur Smucker (Ph.D. Cand.) got his A.B. from Goshen in 1949, since which he has been in graduate school at the University of Illinois, where he has specialized in chemistry. He will teach many of the courses left behind by Dr. Glen Miller as he takes a year's leave.

Merle Jacobs, Ph.D., of the class of 48, took his graduate work in biology at Indiana University. He comes to us well qualified to help Dr. Witmer.

Ruth Gunden, since her graduation in 1952, taught at the Chamberlain School in Goshen. She will help out in the work with women's physical education.

Olive Rich, M.N., of the class of 49, has spent the intervening years getting her R.N. and M.N. at Western Reserve University. Her coming further documents the growing work in our School of Nursing.

Carolyn Weaver Hertzler 46, known to many of us for some years as secretary to the dean, is returning this year as piano teacher.

John Fisher, Jr., 48 has spent his years since graduation here in graduate work and teaching at the University of Pennsylvania. He will supply much-needed help in the department of English. Mr. Fisher is the son of John Fisher, Sr., known to many of you old-timers as "Dean Fisher." He is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Pennsylvania.

Russel Leichty 53 is coming to help out in the Personnel Office, supplying the place left by the ordaining of J. B. Shenk to take charge of the church at Elkhart.

John W. Hubley, a doctoral candidate at Northern Baptist Theological Seminary in Chicago, will teach the course in Old Testament Introduction and Survey during the first semester—in the absence of John Wolf Miller, who will not arrive until the second semester.

Ruth Flisher 50 of Nampa, Idaho, is also coming to help out in personnel work, in the position of Assistant Dean of Women.

John Wolf Miller (Th.D. Cand.) is coming to us at the opening of the second semester as instructor in Old Testament. Since graduating from Goshen in 48, John has been studying at Princeton, where he took the B.D. degree in 1951, at New York University, where he received the M.A. degree in the same year. He completed his graduate training at Basel University in Switzerland.

Besides these, S. M. King, recently returned from India, is the new man in charge of the Public Relations Office. Mr. King was with us for the summer of 28 and spring and summer of 34. He has had experience in educational work both in the Philippines and in India, was a member of the Hesston College faculty 1924-30, and of Taylor University faculty 1935-36. He comes to us well qualified for a very important task.

A number of our regular faculty members are on leave for the year. Dean Carl Kreider continues his work at the International Christian University in Japan. Dr. Glen Miller is leaving for travel and study in the Far West. Dr. Alta Schrock's leave for relief work and study in Europe is extended for the year. Lester Zimmerman is leaving us temporarily for advanced study at Purdue. J. Lawrence Burkholder is continuing his work at Princeton Seminary. Charles Burkhart is with Dean Kreider at I.C.U. in Japan for two years on a I-W assignment. And Norman Kraus is going to Princeton Seminary for the year.

In a faculty the size we have grown to be there is a good deal of turnover and mobility. We trust that these changes will be mutually helpful. Certainly we feel happy to welcome such a large number of well-prepared additions to our teaching ranks.

President Miller at Taylor

President Miller is scheduled to be the Matriculation Day speaker at Taylor University on Friday, September 25. Matriculation Day at Taylor marks the official end of the opening events of the school year, when the school settles down to its year of academic work. The day is characterized by a good deal of pomp and circumstance, when, among other things, the incoming freshmen are officially inducted.

> "I am not able to speak enough thanks to God for the privilege of attending Goshen College, but I am sure He knows."—A summer school graduate in one of her last finals at Goshen.

OF WARS AND RUMORS

In these days of violence and propaganda one needs constantly to think his way through the barrage of shrapnel and verbiage to the truth. It is in face of the facts of the cold war and Korea (with all the connotation which these fateful words carry) that Professor Guy F. Hershberger has revised and brought up to date his now-famous book, War, Peace, and Nonresistance. (Herald Press, Scottdale, Pa. 375 pages; $3.50.) For those who did not read the first edition, a brief review is in order.

As the title implies Dr. Hershberger's scope is large. Beginning with a thumbnail sketch of world history and of war's role in it, he goes on in chapters 2 and 3 to an examination of the Biblical basis for the nonresistant position in both the Old and New Testaments. Chapter 4 traces the instrumentation of this Biblical precept in the history of the church in general, while chapters 5 to 7 narrow the view to a tracing of this phenomenon in the history of the Mennonite Church—both in Europe and in America.

Chapter 8 marks a transition from the primarily narrative motif of the book up to this point to an expository handling of certain problems involved in living the nonresistant position in modern society. Another feature of these chapters is the explanation of how nonresistant groups are not "parasites" on the society in which they live, but that they do have a very worth-while contribution to make. Brands and types of non-co-operation with war are explained and clarified, and distinction is made between such things as "pacifism" (which Dr. Hershberger limits mainly to rationalistic and humanistic forms of opposition to war), the Gandhi type of nonviolent resistance, and Mennonite nonresistance. The place of government and the Christian's relation to it are dealt with at length. In this connection, the difference between historical Quakerism and historical Mennonism is sharply distinguished. All of the more or less abstract ethical and theological ideas are elaborated and illustrated profusely from Professor Hershberger's abundant knowledge of history, both sacred and profane. The work is fittingly climaxed in chapter 12 with a kind of peroration on "Keeping the Faith."

Edition 2 of this book does not differ radically from the first one. The factual material is, of course, brought up to date. In chapter 3 a new section, "Nonresistance an Integral Part of the Gospel," demonstrates an interesting new insight on the part of the author on this his life study. Publication of such books as his own The Mennonite Church and the Second World War (1951), John D. Unruh's In the Name of Christ (1952), and Melvin Gingerich's Service for Peace (1949) has modified the inclusion of certain materials and the handling and organization of others in some of the later chapters.

War, Peace, and Nonresistance is a veritable storehouse of information on the broad scope of its subject. The abundance of bibliographical material at the close of each chapter, the wealth of appendices at the close of the book, and the ample documentation all bear testimony to the thoroughness of the author's preparation for his task. It states the historic Mennonite position very well. The style is characterized by a "sweet reasonableness" which can offend no one. In fact, one may sometimes wish that Dr. Hershberger would allow himself an occasional emotional punch, just the slightest bit of innuendo, or irony, or lightness of touch. But the subject is a serious one treated in objective fashion. Perhaps in the end the weight of the truth carries better without any artificial emotional inflation after all.

IN MEMORIAM

Fred N. Burkey 13, son of Christian and Katherine Burkey, was born September 25, 1884, near Ohio, Illinois. He was called to his eternal home July 19, 1953. In April he was operated upon for appendicitis and recovered nicely. But in June he was stricken with cerebral thrombosis, and after three weeks' illness passed away. He received his A.B. degree from Goshen College, and taught in the high school of Westville, Illinois. Later he was manager of Student Placement in Moody Bible Institute of Chicago for many years. His health failed and he moved to the vicinity of his boyhood home. Here he engaged in farming, but Christian service meant more to him than earthly gain. He was a lover of souls, and did much personal work in his daily life. He was married to Frances Ebersole x13, on October 7, 1915. He is survived by his wife, daughter Eleanor (Mrs. Wallace Engel) at present living at Ohio, Illinois, and son Edmund of Huntington, Indiana. Mr. Burkey is also survived by three grandchildren, a brother Edward of Ohio, Illinois, and a sister Anna (Mrs. George Guither) of Naperville, Illinois.

Report on a Specially-Convened Meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association

Upon the invitation of the Executive Committee of the Board of Education, the officers of the Alumni Association, on September 11 at 12:00 o'clock, met with O. O. Miller 15, financial agent of the Board and Forrest Kanagy 30, elected alumni representative and secretary of the Board, at Hotel Elkhart. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss successorship to President Miller in the office of President of Goshen College.

All the officers of the Alumni Association were present, plus a few invited guests. There was open discussion upon the question.

The specially-convened session of the Board on September 12, held at the Atlantic Hotel in Chicago, decided not to act until their regular annual meeting, to be held October 15-17 at Nappanee, Indiana.

I am sure that the Alumni wish to join the faculty, the church, and the student body in their desire that the Board find a common mind on this problem among the many who make up the Goshen College family.

FIRST GRADUATION EXERCISES OF THE GOSHEN COLLEGE SCHOOL OF NURSING

Another significant milestone in the history of Goshen College occurred at eight o'clock on the evening of July 31, when the first graduates of the Goshen College School of Nursing received their degrees. An audience of about 500 friends and relatives of the graduates and of medical personnel from the community gathered in Union Auditorium for the graduation exercises. Chief speaker for the occasion was Brother Allen Erb, well known in Mennonite circles for his many years of hospital administration, formerly at La Junta, Colorado, and more recently at Lebanon, Oregon. It happens that they are blazing a trail which has already proved to be popular. The Goshen College School of Nursing has up to now enrolled 62 persons and is accredited by the state for this program, as well as by the National Nursing Accrediting Service. To the director, Orpah Mosemann, goes much of the credit.

Following the graduation exercises there was a reception in the Union Lounge for the graduates, staff members, and relatives.

"Standin' in the Need of Prayer"

Goshen College has never had what is sometimes called "smooth sailing." But for the last 20 years or more things have gone well with us. During the administration of President-Emeritus S. C. Yoder we regained our standing with our church and constituency and laid the essential groundwork for the expansion realized under the administration of President Miller.

During his administration our debts were paid off, we gained North Central Association accreditment, and accomplished a remarkable building program. Moreover, it was during these years that the Nursing School and Seminary were organized. Also during these years enrollment tripled; there was a buoyancy and forward-looking optimism which gave incentive and dynamic to the work.

Now our Alma Mater has come to another turning in the road. Will it be up or down—to the right or to the left? It is evident that there is some cleavage among us—which extends even down into the Board of Education. One finds himself confused and even ashamed that it should be so—but it is. It drives one to humility and to one's knees.

Have our years of "smooth sailing" made us self-satisfied and too much at ease? Have we been a bit too proud and forgetful of our neighbors and friends —and perhaps even of God? Has our prosperity driven our dear friends to rivalry and envy? Has our leadership in the field of Mennonite higher education in the past years made us the object of bitterness? To those of us who live and work here from day to day these are questions not merely academic.

We have many times called upon our faithful alumni for financial help; we shall, no doubt, do so many times more. But just now we call upon you for a different kind of help—a more necessary and more profound kind.

Your Alma Mater and her devoted faculty and administration and board of control are "standing in the need of prayer." We need you and we need one another—and we need God! Please do not fail us!

Our Latchstring Is Out

Come one, come all! The fatted calf is killed and the goose hangs high! The pudding's in the oven and the coffee's in the pot. What's more, you have provided us with a new and adequate dining hall. We'll set a place for you and keep a light burning in the window. Your Alma Mater will be standing in the doorway—"as she stood there years ago her boy to greet!"

Goshen College may not exactly be home to you— and yet maybe it is. Certainly we trust that your hallowed memories of the harmony and security which she provided you some years past have made it a place akin to home.

You have no notion of how much we who stay behind miss you when you leave and of how happy we are to see you back on occasion. Some of you have made some pretty important decisions here. So come back again and inspect the classrooms and the campus. Visit the dorm room where you used to live, and examine, once more, those initials and other silly engravings on the arm rest in the third seat of the front row of room 27.

Amuse yourself again with the way the light streaks through the venetian blinds on a sunny day during chapel, and listen once more to an old-fashioned chapel talk. You may even wish to look down with a bird's-eye view upon the revered bald head of the speaker from your perch in the west gallery—and you may want to laugh at some of his jokes! (On the other hand, you may not!)

Poke your head in old offices, and get the smell of biology lab in your nostrils once more. Well, at any rate, come back and relive a bit of your dark past— please do! There'll be turkey with the trimmings and plenty of stuffing, pumpkin pie and cranberry sauce (I have not talked with Miss Roose, but I'm almost certain!), and other things too numerous to mention. There'll be some hearty handshaking and delightful reminiscing.

We'll be seeing you, Thursday, November 26!

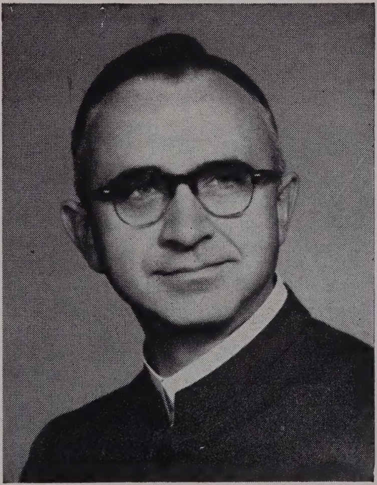
President-Elect Named by Board

Paul Mininger to Take Office in 1954

Dr. Paul Mininger was named president-elect of Goshen College at the October 15 session of the Mennonite Board of Education's annual meeting held at Nappanee, Indiana. He is to take office as president at the beginning of the academic year 1954-55.

Since 1937 Dr. Mininger has been a member of the Goshen College faculty. Recently he has served as professor of practical theology and religious counselor. He was graduated by Goshen with a B.A. degree in 1934 and holds the degree Master of Religious Education from Eastern Baptist Seminary (1936). The University of Pennsylvania granted him a Master of Arts degree in 1937 and the Doctor of Philosophy in 1949.

He has just completed a two-year term as moderator of the Mennonite General Conference and has been chairman of the curriculum committee of the Mennonite Commission for Christian Education since the commission's organization in 1937.



Paul M. Mininger

Dr. Mininger will succeed President Ernest E. Miller, who is retiring after an administration covering the period from 1940 to the present. During these years the college was accredited by the North Central Association.

An extensive building program—including the heating plant, College Union, and Westlawn residence for women—was also carried out. The enrollment of students was trebled during this time with a corresponding increase in faculty members. The Biblical Seminary and Nursing School were organized and expanded and plans for new buildings to house them begun.

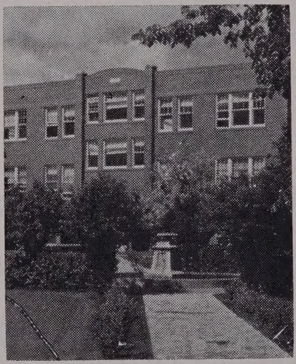
Three Goshen Grads Join Hesston Faculty; One Returns

Three Goshen graduates have recently joined the Hesston College faculty and one has returned there after two years of advanced study.

Gideon G. Yoder received a B.D. and B.R.E. from Goshen in 52 and then spent a year studying at Princeton Theological Seminary. This fall he returned to head the Hesston Bible Department and teach courses in Christian education. Mr. Yoder is a candidate for the Th.M. degree from Princeton. For his master's thesis he discussed "The Educational Problems Inherent in the Mennonite Conception of Believers' Baptism."

Teaching girls' physical education and English is Gail Miller 53. During the past summer she participated in the student tour of Europe.



Hesston Ad Bldg.

Paul Marvin Yoder 51 directs one of the school's choral groups and is teaching voice and music theory. During the past two winters he has conducted music classes in congregations of the South Central and Indiana-Michigan conferences.

Mary Eleanor Bender 50 is teaching all German and Spanish classes and assisting in the English department. Since the fall of 1950 she has been enrolled at Indiana University, where she has done graduate work in German with a minor in comparative literature. Miss Bender spent two years of college study in Europe—three semesters at the University of Basel in German-speaking Switzerland and one at the University of Lausanne in the French-speaking section.

1953 Enrollment Sets Records

Records were set this fall in full-time enrollments of women as well as number and percentage of both Mennonite and Old Mennonite students.

Women students total 308 or 53 per cent of the 576 full-time students. This fall Mennonite students compose 87 per cent of enrollment as compared to the high of 86 per cent a year ago.

Total enrollment is above that of last year and Registrar Paul Bender states that a slight increase is looked for in next year's student body.

Seminary enrollment includes three women and 69 men, while in the postgraduate category there are four men and three women. However, women outnumber the men in every other classification.

In the curriculum breakdown liberal arts leads the field with 94 women and 179 men, while education has 89 women and 27 men. General education totals 16 women and 31 men, and the Bible curriculum includes five women and one man.

Eighty-nine women are enrolled in the Nursing School, 12 in the secretarial curriculum, and one in the Christian workers' course.

Twenty men and one woman are registered in the Seminary divinity curriculum, while theology includes 38 men and religious education two men and two women.

High Lights from the President's Report

The general trend of total enrollment has been upward for the past 10 years with our present total about double that of 10 years ago. 1953 is the first year that the draft now in effect has caused a significant reduction in the number of men enrolled. However, if we use the number of women students as an index of the patronage of Goshen College this support is on the increase.

Seminary enrollment for the year 1952-53 was the largest in our history. Most of the increase was in the B.D. curriculum, which almost doubled its enrollment from 15 to 25.

Student-faculty ratio has improved until it is now 12.7. An increasing student body with varying needs will make additional faculty members necessary. Areas of special need at present are psychology, business administration, and art.

During the year the College carried on eight self-study projects under the North Central Committee on Liberal Arts Education. Also, study of the extracurricular program was continued this past year. One significant result of this study was the establishment of a Student-Faculty Council. This council, composed of 14 students and seven faculty members, provides a much-needed channel through which individual students, student organizations, faculty, and administration can creatively discuss together common concerns and problems.

An important decision during the past year has been the agreement by the faculty to carry through a separation in course offerings between the Seminary and the College Bible departments. A further necessary step will be a more distinct separation of the teaching staff. This is not to discourage students from taking courses in curricula other than their own, but to protect the graduate character of the B.D. curriculum. This will help meet requirements for membership in the American Association of Theological Schools.

It has become clear that we should increase our active offerings and give more adequate training in the field of missions. There is at present no adequate department of missions in any of our Mennonite schools. Since missions is a major concern of the church it must also be a major concern of the Seminary.

Growing demand has led the Seminary faculty to recommend the establishment of a short-term graduate summer session. Plans are now being made to conduct such a session of five weeks in June and July, 1954. It is anticipated that this will be of particular value to the young men who have attended our school and are now out serving as pastors of churches.

The School of Nursing has now completed its fourth year of operation. On July 31, 1953, the first graduation exercises were held. Although there are many problems related to the School of Nursing, the most pressing one is the necessity that money be raised and a building constructed to provide housing, laboratories, classrooms, and offices. That the dormitory is required is evidenced by the fact that again there are 60 resident women living off campus this year and a number of rooms in Westlawn housing more than two students.

During the past year two properties were purchased by the Board of Education. Howell House,

Students leave for Work Days chores

Work Drive Nets Over $5,300

Jobs ranging from picking apples to house cleaning made it possible for more than 500 students to earn a total of over $5,300 in the sixth annual work drive held October 1 and 2. This money will be used for construction costs of the social room now being built south of the Westlawn drive.

Floyd Metz 56 and Darlene Metzler 54 acted as cochairmen of the project which was sponsored by the YPCA service committee.

Alumni Head Medical Association

Newly elected officers of the Mennonite Medical Association can all be claimed as Goshen alumni.

Edward Mininger x36 will be president of the association for the next two years. Dr. Mininger limits his Elkhart, Indiana, practice to obstetrics and gynecology. He is on the staff at Elkhart General Hospital as Chief of the Obstetrical Department.

The new secretary-treasurer is Dr. Earl Leinbach 46, who received his medical training at Indiana University. He recently opened his office for general practice in Hamlet, Indiana.

President-elect Norman Loux 43 is at present doing postgraduate work in psychiatry at Butler Hospital, Providence, Rhode Island. He is serving his I-W at Butler Hospital as assistant superintendent. Dr. Loux will become president of the association when Dr. Mininger's term of office expires.

Samuel J. Bucher 39 is editor of the "Mennonite Medical Messenger" published by the association. Dr. Bucher graduated from Temple University Medical School, interned at York Hospital, York, Pennsylvania, and has had training in psychiatry. He is now practicing medicine in Harman, West Virginia.

Maple Leaf Plans Told by Editor

"The '1954 Maple Leaf' will attempt to present a picture of the school year from the aspect of a student's preparation for a life's work of Christian service," Editor Richard Graber stated in announcing plans for the coming edition of the Goshen College yearbook.

"A natural analysis of campus life would point up the formal studies in combination with informal activities. With this in mind the '54 book will be built around the curricular divisions rather than the usual class distinctions," he revealed. "To retain the old system of individual identification a picture index of all classes will be used."

Printers of the yearbook will again be the Mennonite Publishing House of Scottdale, Pennsylvania, while R. S. Setula of Elkhart will take senior and chorus pictures.

Graber's staff includes Margaret Jantzi and James R. Miller, associate editors; Wilfred Meyer, editorial assistant; and Vance George, art editor.

Winter Bible School Planned

Daytime classes for ministers and evening classes for adults and young people will be included in the Winter Bible School program planned for January 12 through 30.

Paul M. Miller, director of the sessions, has announced that classes will be taught by members of the Seminary faculty assisted by Milton Brackbill of Paoli, Pennsylvania, and Peter Wiebe of Goshen.

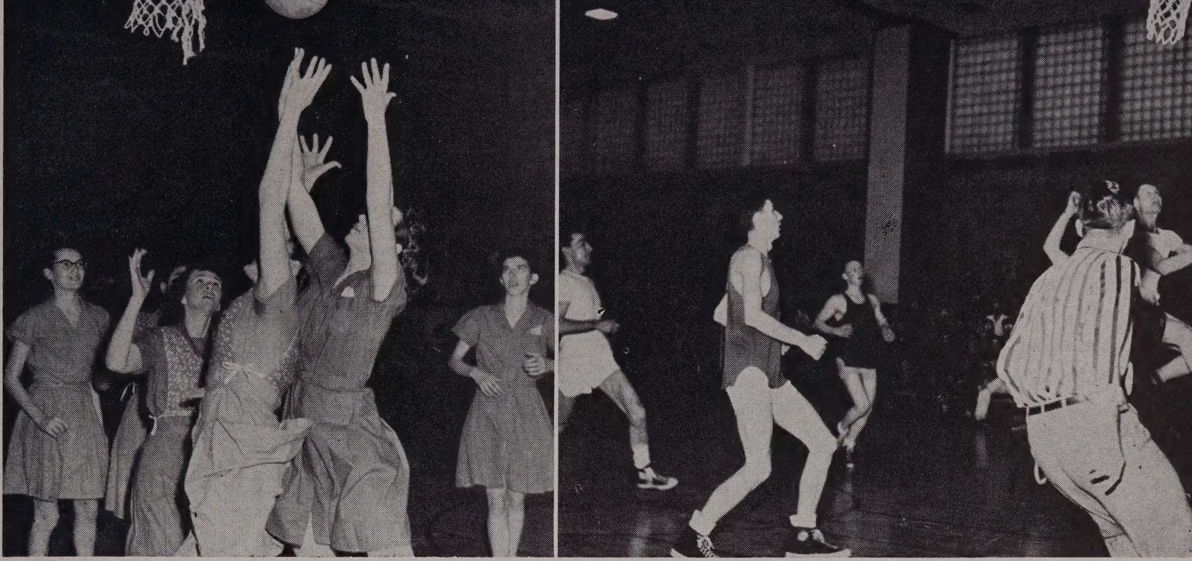
The school for ministers will offer 20 hours of intensive study climaxed by the annual Ministers' Week program. Adult and young people's classes will meet for two hours of study on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Alumni Teach at Messiah College

Ruth Diehl 53 Hackman and John Keith Miller 51 have joined the faculty of Messiah College, Grantham, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Hackman, who serves as dietitian, held that position at Goshen during the summer session this year. She was married on June 6 to Edward Hackman of Palmyra, Pennsylvania, who is now enrolled in the Messiah theology department. For two years prior to finishing her work at Goshen Mrs. Hackman participated in Brethren in Christ home mission work in Detroit.

Miller teaches in the mathematics and science departments. He has studied in the Indiana University graduate school and taught in the high schools of Martel, Ohio, and Rome City, Indiana. Mrs. Miller (Maxine Schrock 52) is teaching in the Boiling Springs, Pennsylvania, public schools.



Alumni tackle student sportsmen in annual basketball event

Grads to Visit Campus November 26, 27

Thanksgiving time will again find alumni returning to Goshen for Home-coming activities. Those who attend the twenty-fourth annual gathering will find few changes in the traditional two-day program, according to J. Howard Kauffman, chairman of the Home-coming Committee.

The major innovation will be a return to having the after-dinner program take place in the dining hall. This was discontinued when the student and alumni group became too large to be accommodated by the Kulp Hall dining room.

Alumni feast on Thanksgiving fare

Trapps make music

Inaugurated this year will be the plan of issuing reservations for the Thanksgiving Banquet. These may be obtained by writing the Home-coming Committee. Payment will not be made for reservations until the day of the banquet when tickets will be on sale until 11:45 a.m.

Festivities will begin on a serious note November 26 at 10:30 a.m. with the Thanksgiving service. Dinner is to be served at 12:15 p.m. and will be followed by the after-dinner program. During the afternoon tours of new College facilities will be conducted. These will include the classrooms in the basement of Kulp Hall, the social room and kitchenette adjoining Kulp and Westlawn, and the new kitchen. The traditional chorus program is being planned by Walter Yoder for Thursday at 8:00 p.m.

Friday morning alumni will again be invited to visit classes which will be in session and to join in the chapel period. Student-alumni basketball games are to take place in the College Union at 1:45 (women) and 3:15 (men).

Climaxing and closing the celebration will be the appearance of the Trapp Family Singers at 8:15 p.m. Friday. This group is composed of Mrs. Maria Augusta Trapp, her five daughters, two sons, and their conductor, Father Franz Wasner.

Many Frosh Second Generation Students

Invariably every school year someone is heard to say, "It doesn't take long to look around and see whose brothers and sisters are here." Faculty members can often expand this to include sons and daughters of former students as well.

This year, among freshmen and transfer students alone, there are 36 persons whose parents have attended Goshen College.

According to available records, they are:

Vol. XLVII August, 1953 — Goshen, Indiana No. 10

WHAT TO DO AFTER SUMMER

"Won't you speak to common folk?" Joyce turned face-about on the sidewalk to the merry voice behind her.

"Carol, I didn't see you; I was so engrossed in this letter." She handed it to Carol. "What are you going to do this summer?"

Carol shrugged her shoulders and began reading, " . . . and we shall be happy to have you serve in our office beginning July 1." She looked at Joyce with widened eyes. "You've a secretarial job at the industrial plant!"

"Yes, just what I wanted. Isn't that wonderful?" Joyce smiled happily; "And now that school's out I'm anxious to get started." Carol looked away quickly. Talented Joyce, who had only two weeks ago reconsecrated her life for Christian service, holding a job in an industrial plant!

Quickly she said, "Isn't it a grand feeling with no assignments hanging over our heads! And we're not even 'sophisticated seniors' any more. But I'm going to miss not going back to Center Hi next fall."

"Me, too," Joyce said. "But think of all the interesting things our class will be doing by then, some in college, some with jobs, and some—"

"Some doing a little bit of nothing, like me, if I don't get started." Carol replaced an unruly strand of hair. "But what about your voice lesson, and club work with the juniors—you won't give them up, will you?"

"Not if I can help it. I'll be taking the bus back and forth every day and probably won't get home too early, but Saturday afternoon will be open."

Carol turned to go up the steps of her home. "You're going to Miller's for our Sunday-school class meeting, aren't you?"

"Yes, I'll stop about 7:00. 'By."

The meeting at Miller's, the home of their teacher, was over by 9:15, but no one seemed in a hurry to leave.

"What are you doing this summer?" Mrs. Miller questioned Sue, a quieter member of the group.

Sue's eyes lit up. "I'm going to Rocky Point Mission to help the Martins' with the Sunday school there."

"How wonderful!" Mrs. Miller was enthusiastic. "You'll have to write and tell us about it. And you, Janet, what are you going to do?" She turned to another of the group. The others had stopped their informal conversation to hear of the plans of their classmates.

"I'm going to teach Bible school most of the summer and then enter college this fall." Janet had decided that long ago.

"This is becoming very interesting." Mrs. Miller turned again, "Joyce, are you going into Christian service, too?"

ALL EYES but Carol's turned on Joyce. Surely she would be planning for some very significant Christian work; she was talented and got along well with people.

"Yes, I am," Joyce replied. Carol looked at her sharply. "I'm going to work as a secretary at Harrison's Industrial Organization on the other side of town."

"But she said Christian—" Carol blurted out.

"Just a moment," Mrs. Miller said. "Let Joyce explain. I think she is right. Go on, Joyce."

"I know it isn't Christian service in the way we are used to thinking of Christian service," she began, "but I feel in a way it can be a most effective witness. I will be working every day with people and my life can be a testimony to them. And if I can do my work faithfully and well I think it can be a real service." She glanced at Carol.

"You're right, probably," Carol said finally. "But secretarial work can become pretty boring, can't it? Couldn't you do something more significant for that company that would leave an even better testimony? I'm not sure what, but—"

Entered as second-class matter, November 17, 1924, at the post office at Goshen, Indiana, under Act of August 24, 1912. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Sec. 1103. Act of October 3, 1917, authorized November 17, 1924.

"I'm afraid we underestimate the very important place that a secretary fills in any job," Mrs. Miller joined in again. "Think of all the letter writing, filing, and other detail that an office manager would have to take care of had he no secretary."

"Yes," Joyce said, "some persons are then free from that responsibility and can concentrate on other things."

Mrs. Miller turned to Carol again. "May I ask what you are planning for the summer?"

Carol reddened a bit. "I was just telling Joyce today that I'd better start looking for a job. I want something in Christian service. You've challenged us so often in class," she glanced up at Mrs. Miller, "but I thought that meant teaching Bible school maybe, or doing visitation work or joining a service unit."

"Those things are important, too."

"But Joyce's idea is quite different," Carol went on. "I'm beginning to see that even secretarial work is a valuable service. Those jobs have to be done." She stopped as though surprised at herself for having said it.

"It's not all so simple, either," Mrs. Miller said. "Much is expected of a secretary, and in some offices she is given considerable responsibility. A girl really has a chance to show her patience, good will, and charity—really, herself as a Christian witness." She stopped and then suddenly added, "There are a number of job openings for secretaries right now in Mennonite institutions. Carol, you've had typing in high school, haven't you?"

Sue piped in, "She was one of the best typists in our class." She remembered competing with Carol for the highest score.

"Carol would make a competent secretary!" Joyce said enthusiastically. "Ever considered it, Carol? There are a lot of secretarial jobs open."

Carol smiled a bit sheepishly. "Never seriously. I was so bent on doing something I considered Christian service."

Mrs. Miller reached up on the library table beside her and began leafing through a GOSPEL HERALD. "Carol, have you seen this?" she handed the paper to her.

CAROL READ, "SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES AWAIT SECRETARIES. Several openings exist for young women and men who are interested in a term of service as secretaries. These openings include such positions as secretaries at Akron headquarters and other MCC centers. One-year or two-year terms of service are preferable. The ability to type is a necessity, and a knowledge of shorthand is desirable. Those having served in secretarial capacities have not only performed valuable service, but have also enriched their lives. MCC News Service, Akron, Pennsylvania."

"Mrs. Miller, I didn't know about this." Carol stopped. "But don't you have to be specially qualified for such jobs? I mean, have more than just one year of typing and shorthand in preparation?"

"Yes," Mrs. Miller agreed, "it does take more. You know, I believe you would enjoy talking to Mrs. Yordy. She was a secretary for a number of years and is familiar with the work."

"Oh, yes, I know Mrs. Yordy. Maybe I can go to see her tomorrow."

"And tomorrow's not so far off!" Joyce jumped up as she glanced at her watch. "Coming, Carol? Good night, everyone!"

SOME OF CAROL'S QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Carol curled up in the cozy chair in the corner. As Mrs. Yordy pulled up a hassock and sat beside her, Carol's thoughtful glance took in the simple but attractive and comfortable room. Could Mrs. Yordy have been a secretary before she was married? Such a lovely home, such an intelligent and talented lady—why, just such a wonderful person!

"Tell me, Mrs. Yordy, is it really true that you were a secretary for five years before you were married?"

"Yes, Carol, five full years and a couple summers while I was going to college learning my secretarial skills, to be exact."

"But I didn't suppose people like you would ever want to be secretaries. Isn't a secretary someone who doesn't know how to do anything else—someone who doesn't have enough brains to be a teacher or a nurse?" Carol wasn't convinced, yet.

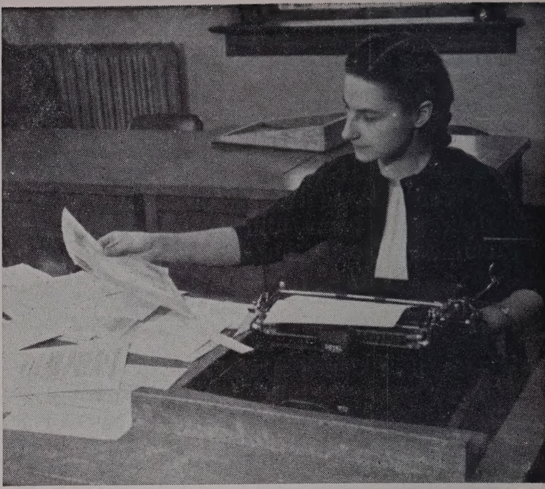
"There are some persons who find that they don't have all the qualifications of a teacher or nurse who do have the requirements for some kinds of secretarial work and can make a fine contribution in an office. But that isn't usually the case, Carol. Being a good secretary is not an easy job. In fact, sometimes I think a secretary needs to know more about more things than most other professional workers. She needs to know how to keep the office tidy, how to type accurately and efficiently, how to take dictation or operate a machine like a Dicaphone, how to operate various other office machines, how to handle her boss's correspondence (dictation, transcription, letter form, sentence structure and punctuation, good grammar), how to file (and unfile!)."

Carol was squirming in her chair. That sounded like ten persons' work. And she had thought maybe she could be a secretary!

Mrs. Yordy continued. "Those technical skills are not always the most difficult requirements to meet, though. One man who is an executive at the James Manufacturing Company here in town told me that he must also find as his secretary someone who can meet people easily, who can be friendly and cheerful as well as firm when she needs to refuse an interview. He said, also, that he needs a girl who is willing to keep at a job until it is done, one who can work quickly and quietly and at the same time catch her own errors. Because he needs to be gone from the office so much of the time, he always looks for a secretary who he is sure will be able to carry on the work of the office even while he is gone. Personality factors are sometimes more important to the boss than are unusual skills."

"You don't mean that every secretary needs to know all those things, do you?"

"It depends somewhat upon the circumstances, of course, No two offices are exactly alike. I have a niece who works in the accounting department for a large concern, and about all she does all day, every day, is operate the accounting machine. On the other hand, just last week I was talking with Jeanie Yoder about her work. She chooses to work in a small office where she has a variety of tasks to do because she doesn't find routine work nearly as inspiring and challenging. Consequently, she has many more instances where she needs to use her own initiative. She needs to know a lot about a lot of things."



ANOTHER THOUGHT was bothering Carol. "I think I would like to be a private secretary, Mrs. Yordy. I heard that there are many offices in our church organizations and institutions that need private secretaries. I believe I would enjoy doing that sort of work—or perhaps being a secretary for a pastor of some congregation. What would be the duties of such a secretary?"

"Wonderful, Carol! I think you would enjoy that. A position such as that would require taking a lot of responsibility because a private secretary needs to be her boss's right-hand man. My roommate at school is how a secretary to S. A. King in one of our church organizations. She needed very efficient stenographic skills because Mr. King writes many letters all over the world. There are also reports, recommendations, and many forms; and Shirley must be able to work very rapidly. Many men come to see Mr. King; so Shirley meets them all and arranges appointments for them to see him.

"We stopped to see Shirley as we returned from our vacation last summer, and I was surprised to find that Mr. King had been gone for nearly a week. Shirley was carrying on the work by herself. Mr. King counts on her to do her regular work, and he depends on her to catch any errors he may have overlooked, to be responsible for many of the routine reports and forms. In fact, he gives her as much of his work as she has time to do because he has learned she will do it well. That gives him many more hours to do more study and planning.

'Shirley has demonstrated the point that one businessman made when he said, 'The ability to carry things through to a conclusion without instruction is the crowning feature of secretarial success.'"

"Oooh! I thought maybe I'd like to be a secretary, but I don't know—do you think I'd have what it takes?" Carol was a little overwhelmed when she realized what all is included in secretarial work.

"HOW MANY courses did you take in high school that will help you be a secretary, Carol?"

"Well, there was one year of general business, one of shorthand, and one of typing. Shorthand was the course that caused me the most trouble, although I guess I could have a better typing speed. I got mine up to fifty-three words a minute. Is that enough, do you think?"

"Fifty-three words a minute in one year is good, Carol. But a good secretary should be able to hold a better average over a long period of time. Have you had any courses dealing with office machines, business English, or office practices?"

"No. It would be well for a secretary to know all those things, though, wouldn't it? I wonder, Mrs. Yordy, is it possible to learn those things somewhere quickly?"

"I have an idea. Carol, have you ever thought of the possibility of going to a church college for—oh, say, a year? You could take the secretarial curriculum—which means your courses for the school year would be mostly courses that would help you become a better secretary. Advanced typing, advanced shorthand, office practices and procedures, and office machines would probably be some of your courses. At the end of the year you receive a Secretarial Certificate. There would also be time for you to take a couple courses in some other field, perhaps Bible, or music, or home economics.

"Or you could even plan to take the two-year curriculum which leads to an A.A. (Associate Arts) degree. In this plan there is opportunity to take many nonsecretarial courses which will be very useful to you and enrich your life. I think you would enjoy being on a Christian campus with hundreds of other young people and Christian professors. There would be many interesting and helpful programs and activities to attend too."

"MMM. I'd have to talk it over with Mom and Dad, but I think I'd like that. Tell me one more thing: how could I find out more about it?"

"If you would write to our church school, they would be glad to send you literature, catalogs, and application forms, I'm sure."

Carol jumped up. "Oh, my, it's getting late. I'll have to hurry home. Our MYF is going to Mason City to give a program this evening, and I want to be ready when the gang leaves. Thank you so much for all of your wonderful help, Mrs. Yordy. I'll let you know what I decide."

"You're welcome, Carol. I'd be happy to know what you'll be doing in September. Good-by."

"Good-by."

CAROL VISITS A COLLEGE FOR MORE ANSWERS

"A TELEPHONE call for you, Carol," her mother called up the stairs.

"I'll be right there, Mother." She was already halfway down the steps.

As soon as the telephone conversation was completed, Carol dashed to the kitchen to find her mother.

"Guess what! Mrs. Yordy just called to tell me that she and her family have to make an unexpected trip to her parents' home tomorrow. She said that our church college is only a few miles away from her home, and—" Carol had to stop for breath—"and they wondered if I would like to go along with them. She said they would take me to the college and show me around. We could meet some of the teachers and students. And, Mother, just think what an experience that would be! Do you think I may go?"

Carol's mother, calm as she always was, smiled understandingly at her daughter. "It was very thoughtful of the Yordys to ask you to go along with them. Perhaps seeing the college and meeting some of the people will help you know for sure whether or not you want to go to college in September."

"I promised her I'd call back very soon. Oh, Mother,, I thought you'd want me to go along!"

"TOMORROW" finally came. As 275 miles were traveled, Carol's mind was preoccupied with questions—What would the buildings be like? What kind of persons are there? What are college teachers like? Of course, this was summer school, but it would be about the same next fall, she supposed; only more students . . . .

In the afternoon she and Mrs. Yordy went to the college. First, they toured the campus and saw all the buildings—dormitories, library, auditorium, offices and classrooms, Snack Shop, and gymnasium. Mrs. Yordy knew some of the students and introduced Carol to them. They seemed so friendly. Carol was quite surprised to see several friends she had made at Laurelville Camp last summer. A few students she had learned to know at her state MYF Retreat, too. So many persons—and Christian young people—one could have lots of Christian fellowship on a church-school campus.

"LET'S GO in this building, Carol. I'd like to show you the rooms in which I spent most of my time when I was a student here—the commerce department, where the secretarial courses are taught.

Carol saw rooms for typing, accounting, and other secretarial courses. There were adding machines, calculators, dictating and transcribing machines, and other equipment.

"I want to stop at my former teacher's office. You come along, Carol; she'll be glad to meet you, I know. Right here is her office"; she knocked.

"Come in." Of course there were warm greetings and things to talk about, but Mrs. Yordy wanted her teacher to meet Carol.

"This is Carol Shenk. We asked her to come along with use because we knew she was thinking about going to college to take more secretarial training. We've just come in from seeing the campus."

"How do you do, Carol. I'm always very happy to meet prospective secretaries; there aren't enough to meet all the demands. Just this morning I got another letter in the mail from the MCC headquarters at Akron saying that they were in urgent need of secretaries. Won't you sit down, I'd like to show you a few of the calls for secretaries I've received in the last while.

"Here is the letter from MCC: 'Right now we need a qualified mimeograph operator and two top-notch secretaries. Any suggestions you will be able to give us will be greatly appreciated.'

"And here are letters from Mennonite hospitals asking for a combination stenographer-bookkeeper, a stenographer who could take dictation on X-ray pictures and keep case histories up to date, a receptionist who would also do routine clerical work.

"These are requests from Christian doctors who have been looking for capable secretaries who sometimes also serve as assistants.

"This is the copy of a telegram I sent to a Christian businessman in another state saying that I had no one to suggest for his office.

"Oh, yes, here is my correspondence with the Mennonite Publishing House at Scottdale, Pennsylvania, and the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities at Elkhart, Indiana. These two organizations, too, need the services of consecrated secretaries. And we use about twenty girls in our offices here at the college. So you see, Carol, if you decide to improve and complete your secretarial skills by coming to college, you will not lack for opportunities."

Carol was surprised. She hadn't been aware that there was such a need for good secretaries. "But why aren't there enough secretaries? It seems there are so many girls that could—"

"Perhaps it is because they are not aware of the need, the challenge, and the opportunities secretarial work presents. 'Our church institutions need intelligent, capable, and devoted workers who recognize the opportunities which they have for service in this connection. Administrators can be relieved of much detail through the work which secretaries perform . . . ' That's what one church leader said. A home economics teacher said, 'Investments in secretarial skills are good investments for young women because they can use these skills to help their husbands in their work or to do part-time work after marriage.

Women with these skills can contribute to church and community work just as women with sewing skills.' "

"That's interesting," Carol commented. "But do the girls—the secretaries themselves—see their work in this same way?"

"That is an excellent question, Carol, and a very important one. I wanted specific evidence; so I made a study to determine exactly how the girls do feel about secretarial work. Here is a folder with statements secretaries made. Would you like to read some of them?"

Carol took the folder.

"I believe that doing secretarial work in an organization which has service for Christ as its ultimate goal gives the secretary the opportunity to be a means to that end . . . There is a great deal of satisfaction in doing a thing and doing it well, but there is an even greater satisfaction in knowing that by so doing you are serving Christ as a secretary in a church institution."

Bold handwriting gave these words, "My secretarial training has helped me work my way through college. If the college had not included the secretarial curriculum in its course offerings, it is unlikely that I could have completed my college training and prepared further for teaching."

A small sheet of paper had this testimony, "I have worked for church organizations and other businesses, and I can say that I have thoroughly enjoyed being a secretary . . . I believe my pastor-husband appreciates having married an ex-secretary, for he keeps me plenty busy with his secretarial work."

Mrs. Yordy looked at Carol who seemed very quiet. Carol was lost in thought —"Secretarial work for a Christian girl must really be a challenge. I—I think I'd like being a secretary," Carol offered.

"I'm glad, Carol. I surely hope you'll come to college in September and enroll in our secretarial curriculum. If you have any questions, be sure to write."

"Thank you very much. Perhaps you will be hearing from me again before September."

This material appeared in similar form originally in the YOUTH'S CHRISTIAN COMPANION Published at Scottdale, Pa.

If you have limited or INADEQUATE SECRETARIAL SKILLS, have you wished for an opportunity to "brush up" or get skills? Do you know there are many OPPORTUNITIES for young women who have secretarial skills?

GOSHEN COLLEGE

Three views of Westlawn Residence Hall for Women. A practical, economical structure, well built so that it will house students for many years if the Lord tarries. A modern kitchen and beautiful dining room occupy the ground floor.

It's fo

The highest expression of faith in Christ . . . will be found in loving, sacrificial service to one's fellow men.*

To build a building, hire a faculty, and operate a college is only justified in increased ability and desire for Christian service.

To invest in Christian church-related education in the presence of state schools is made worthwhile in dedicated lives of discipleship.

In missionaries, nurses, mothers, and teachers of children, Christian education is fulfilled.

The work of education at Goshen has been blessed. More than 10,000 have received instruction in these classrooms. During 1952-53, 729 students enrolled in the seminary, school of nursing, preprofessional work, teacher education, various programs in secretarial training, Christian workers, music, etc.

How many of the 10,000 serving the Church in full time service is not known, though at least 199 are now serving in foreign missions.

J. D. Graber recently said, at a meeting in Louisville, Ohio, "We must depend on the Church schools to supply the never-filled need for trained Christian workers required by the program of the Church."

The Board of Education depends on her church's support to provide the tools and equipment necessary for the task of Christian education for service, that the work of the Kingdom may advance.

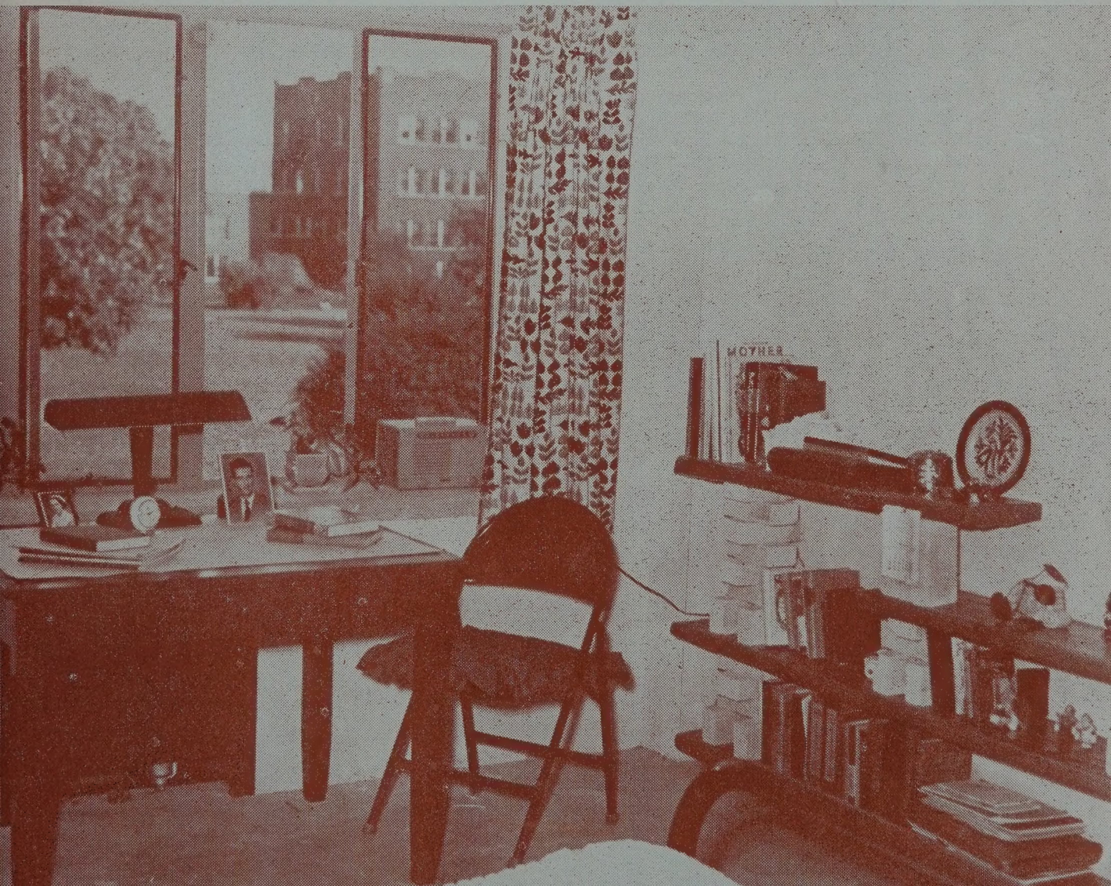
TO FINISH AND TO FURNISH

Westlawn Residence Hall for Women, begun in the fall of 1950, is home to over one hundred young women enrolled at Goshen College. The building is not quite finished. The furniture in the rooms is makeshift, improvised—brought out of attics and basements so that the girls might take possession. Already this dormitory contributes to the development of Christian womanhood. In a decade it will have served one thousand student-years.

As one contemplates the long years of a building's usefulness and the meaning of the lives that will be lived there, the funds used to build it take on true perspective as an investment in the evangelization of the world.

What may seem little more than a pile of brick and steel reveals its meaning and purpose when lighted by purposeful living.

Goshen College women are glad to be in Westlawn even though it is unfinished. (Even with this new dormitory available, it is necessary for women to live off the campus in rooms rented by the college.) Residents of Room 102 increased the livability of the room with planks and bricks borrowed from Mr. Jackson, the construction engineer, for bookshelves.



INCREASE GIVING BY TAKING TAX DEDUCTIONS

Over 80% of the U. S. federal income taxpayers simply use the standard deduction of 10% instead of itemizing and claiming all legitimate deductions, thereby paying millions more in taxes than the law requires. J. K. Lasser, tax authority, says: "ABOUT SEVEN OF EVERY TEN AMERICANS OVERPAY ON THEIR INCOME TAX OFTEN THROUGH IGNORANCE OR CARELESSNESS."

Many actual cases among Mennonites illustrate Lasser's point. An estimated 18,720 Mennonites pay federal tax. If Lasser is right, 13,104 are overpaying their taxes. Assuming that the average overpayment is $25, then the total given to Uncle Sam carelessly would be $337,600—a first-class fire-proof dormitory for 125 students: in ten years, ten dormitories. Overpayment of federal tax can be recovered by filing an amended form and claiming refund.

By careful tax savings many people could increase their gifts to charity and Christian education. Modest gifts can serve great ends if given to programs that are planned with clear vision and sustained by compassionate hearts and alert minds. In 1952 the American people gave only about 2% of their income to charity. The Mennonites averaged less than 5%. The federal income tax law allows deductions up to 20%. "He that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly." (II Cor. 9:6.)

ARE WE GOOD EXAMPLES?

During the year 1952, a denomination of slightly over one million members contributed, mostly in small gifts, $13,000,000 for buildings at their church colleges and at several foreign mission schools. This denomination, with a salaried ministry, averaged about $12.00 per member. In 1952, the (Old) Mennonites averaged about $2.50 per member, for the building funds at their three colleges.

END INVESTMENT WORRIES

Annuities have been a popular form of investment in recent years. Under this plan one can create a living trust for himself and his wife so that a fixed income is received as long as either lives. Since income from the annuity is actually part interest and part repayment of prinpical, not all of it is subject to federal income tax. The annuity plan is especially appreciated by people having surplus funds in the form of real property, stocks or bonds who wish to be relieved of the problems of managing investments and the uncertainties of fluctuating economic conditions. The older the annuitant at the time the annuity is established the higher the rate of return (which goes as high as 6%) he will receive from it.

REMEMBER GOSHEN COLLEGE IN YOUR WILL

Neglect in making a will often leads to tragedy and disappointment A Mennonite brother without direct heirs, whose estate was worth $50,000, had planned to divide the estate between his local church and two established boards of the denomination. Sudden death took him away and the entire estate went to distant relatives who had no connection with the Church. Parents with children could also bequeath a percentage of the estate to the Church and Church institutions as an honor to God and as an example for the heirs.

Consult a reliable attorney and make your will before it is too late. The following form of legal bequest is recommended: "I hereby give, devise, and bequeath unto the Mennonite Board of Education Inc., for the use of Goshen College, the sum of $........ to be paid out of the real or personal property owned by me at my death."

Enrollment Trends

Another school year at Goshen College has begun with 576 full time students, a number which is only about 1% higher than the 568 students of a year ago. In the light of the general increase in college enrollments in America this increase at Goshen College represents less than should have been expected. On the other hand, certain detailed analyses would indicate that Goshen College has again experienced a significant increase in patronage from its constituency.

To substantiate the increase in patronage at Goshen College the new all time high figures both for women students and for Mennonite students will serve as an index. The current total of 308 full time women students exceeds last fall's record number of 290, as well as the previous peak of 267 in the fall of 1947. Assuming that the enrollment patronage at Goshen College would have equal numbers of men and women, if the men were in full attendance, the potential enrollment this fall should be well over 600 and should exceed the peak of 609 reached in 1948, at which time the post-war return of men students had caused the record high of enrollment.

The current number of 502 students of all Mennonite branches represents a new high both in absolute number and in percentage. This fall the Mennonite students represent 87% of the student body as compared to 86% a year ago. Perhaps more significant is the number of students who are members of the Mennonite Church, the branch operating Goshen College, which has reached a new high of 454, representing 79% of the total full time students. This exceeds both last year's new high of 436 and also the previous high of 431 attained in 1948.

This year's figures show a decrease in the total number of men students, resulting both from the call to service by Selective Service and from the small proportion of men students among those entering as freshmen. This is the first year that the draft has called significant numbers of men with I-O classification, with the expected result that quite a number of these men are discontinuing their college study at this time to enter their I-W draft service. On the other hand, the continued small number of men in the entering group is to be regretted since men of the normal age for entering the college freshman class are too young to be directly affected by the draft. This is now the third freshman class in which the men have numbered only about 40% of the total. As these classes continue through college this small proportion of men will be reflected in the higher college classes. The impact of large numbers of men returning to college after the completion of their I-W service will probably be felt first in 1955, at which time there should be a reversal of the present downward trend in the proportion of men students. In the meantime, it is to be hoped also that a larger proportion of the men can be induced to begin their college study immediately after graduating from high school, rather than postponing it until after their draft service.

The women students this year represent 53% of the total full time enrollment, with each of the four college classes showing more women than men. The freshmen class is 59% women, sophomores 61%, juniors 52% and seniors 51%. On the other hand, 28 of the 30 advanced seminary students and four of the seven post-graduate students are men. It might also be pointed out that the 89 students in the nursing curriculum are all women, whereas there are 60 men among the 63 full time students in the Biblical Seminary.

Students transferring from other colleges again number about the same as a year ago, with a total of 54 who have classification above freshman. There is a rather marked difference in distribution among classes, however, with only 22 transfer students entering the junior class as compared to 32 a year ago. This reflects a smaller number of transfer students from our sister colleges which offer principally junior college study.

In making estimates as to the numbers of students that might be expected in the school year 1954-55, one might use as before the experience of the past five years to predict the retention of students from one class to the next. These figures lead to the following class sizes for the fall of 1954: sophomore 130, junior 110, senior 103. In addition one might predict that the freshman and advanced classes will be approximately the same as this year, namely, freshman 180, advanced seminary 30, post-graduate 7. Using these figures one would arrive at a grand total of 560. It is to be hoped, however, that along with the national trend toward an increase in college enrollments, the freshman class will be somewhat larger, perhaps as large as 200. This number would easily be reached if the men graduating from high school could be induced to begin college study. Also, at least a few men may be expected to return from their term of draft service. One might hope, therefore, that the total enrolment in the fall of 1954 would be at least as large as, or perhaps slightly larger than this fall. On the other hand, without the increased patronage in the freshman class and from other men students, the total enrollment would probably be smaller in 1954 than it is in 1953. It is also to be borne in mind that a major change in economic status of the constituency of Goshen College would likely cause a considerable shifting in these predicted figures.

Factors to be taken into account in making plans for the coming school year should include any significant change in economic status and the attitude of men students toward college attendance. Special effort should again be made to persuade young men of normal age to undertake at least the beginning of their college study before going into their draft service. Also, men now in service, particularly those in I-W service, should receive some inducement to continue their interest in higher education, or to develop such interest, and to undertake college study upon the completion of their term of service. In addition it will be well for Mennonite colleges to continue their efforts to attract as large a proportion as possible of Mennonite young people undertaking higher education to study in their own church schools. This latter task can be accomplished best no doubt through a continued effort to furnish a college program of general scholastic excellence, as well as maintaining a sensitive contact with the higher educational needs of Mennonite young people.
